Meredith, Gregory Arrive In Racially Tense Jackson

Negro Student Education Fund Drive Launched

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) —Negro James Meredith arrived in this racially tense city under heavy police protection Sunday to kick off a fund-raising drive for needy Negro students.

The slim young Negro who cracked the University of Mississippi's segregation barrier last fall was met by 30 blue-helmeted police when he stepped off an airplane.

The police escort accompanied the eight-car motorcade in which Meredith and his wife traveled to a Negro meeting hall for the campaign.

Negro comedian Dick Gregory left a night club engagement in San Francisco to journey here Sunday and bolster a desegregation drive which so far has resulted in 570 Negro arrests.

Meredith would not be pinned down on whether he will join Gregory and other Negroes in demonstrations here. "All Negroes participate in the business you're referring to," he said. "I don't like mistreating and manhandling of Negro women. I don't have any patience with that sort of thing."

He said he hopes to raise $1 million for the "Meredith Education Fund for Deserving Youngsters" and said $2,000 already has been pledged, some by professors at the University of Mississippi.

"I've been searching for an answer to what to do after I get out of school," Meredith said, and the biggest need now is to help in some way young Negroes to better train themselves."

Another top Negro leader, Roy Wilkins, left Jackson Saturday night after being released from jail under $1,000 bond. Wilkins, who is executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), was arrested Saturday for picketing.

Some 200 of the approximately 500 Negro youths arrested last week in civil rights marches remained in makeshift stockades Sunday on the state fairgrounds. They played and rested. Others had been released to their parents.

Eighty-eight of the youths, most of whom are in their teens, were imprisoned late Saturday after running into a human blockade of helmeted policemen while attempting to march on downtown Jackson from a meeting hall in a Negro business district. Police herded them into trucks without violence.

Shortly before the march, Mayor Allen Thompson told a news conference that Jackson was at a "crisis point" and police were "handling a piece of dynamite that could explode at any moment." Thompson said authorities would do everything possible to prevent violence.

Wreckage Of Plane, Four Bodies Found

CLINES CORNERS, N.M. (AP) —The wreckage of a plane missing since Thursday was found today and the four persons aboard were dead.

The wreckage was spotted from the air about one mile west of Clines Corners, which is about 60 miles east of Albuquerque.

State police found the broken bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Miles, and Al Lindsay, all of Albuquerque, and Harry Ingman, Lubbock, Tex. in the scattered wreckage. State police said there was no fire.

Cyclone Toll 22,000

DACCA, East Pakistan (AP) —President Ayub Khan flew to East Pakistan Sunday to survey the havoc from last week's cyclone. Incomplete official figures put the death toll at about 22,000.

Gov. Wallace Airs His Views

Defiant Wallace Doesn't Expect U. Ala. Violence

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gov. George Wallace of Alabama predicted Sunday there would be no violence when two Negro students attempt to enter the state university June 10. He reiterated he would personally be waiting to bar them at the door.

Wallace said on a television news program things would be "peaceful and serene" and "we are not going to have any violence" when the Negroes try to enter the University of Alabama.

The outspoken segregationist refused to acknowledge that he had been "ambushed" and served a subpoena in Birmingham earlier Sunday ordering him to appear Monday in U.S. District Court to show cause why he should not interfere with the scheduled integration of the state university.

"I don't know that I have received a legal service in any court matter pending," Wallace declared.

He added, however, that he would be represented by attorneys when the court convenes in Birmingham Monday. "My presence is not necessary," he said.

Deputy U.S. Marshal Donald Forsyth served Wallace with the subpoena as he boarded a jetliner Sunday en route to his television appearance.

"The governor took the papers in his hand with a look of bewilderment and amazement," Marshal Payton Norville said in Birmingham.

Negro and white pickets paraded outside Rockefeller Center in midtown Manhattan while Wallace was appearing on the program. Scores of police were on hand to prevent any incidents but the estimated 100 to 150 demonstrators did not see Wallace, who entered the building through a basement entrance.

Astronauts Get 'On-Spot' Jungle Survival Training

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's 16 astronauts headed for Panama Sunday to learn how to survive in dense jungles. The four days' training—half of it on their own in a tropical rain forest—will include how to kill and eat giant lizards, monkeys and insects which may become part of their diet.

Both the original seven Project Mercury astronauts and the nine new members of America's space team flew to the Air Force survival school operated by the Caribbean Air Command at Albrook Air Force Base in the Canal Zone.

There they will spend Monday and Tuesday in classroom work

Blast Triggers Missile Site Fire

ROSWELL, N.M. (UPI) — An Atlas missile site continued to burn Sunday following an explosion, but a Walker Air Force Base spokesman said the situation was under control.

Cause of the explosion was not determined. Walker information officer Lt. H. M. Childress said there was no nuclear warhead at the site at the time of the explosion Sunday.

The Atlas missile inside the 175-foot deep silo was completely destroyed. The missile crew, engaged in normal maintenance procedure, escaped unharmed.

Navy Resumes Thresher Hunt

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP) — The Navy resumed Sunday the task of trying to locate the sunken submarine Thresher after determining that none of the pictures of the ocean bottom shows the lost hull.

The Navy announced in Washington Saturday that a thorough analysis of pictures taken Thursday by underwater cameras had failed to confirm the belief that they showed the submarine.

Dr. J. Lamar Worzel, assistant director of the Lamont Geological Observatory, whose researchers took the underwater pictures, testified before the Navy court of inquiry at Portsmouth for 15 minutes Saturday.

He produced five photographs, but he could not say that they showed any part of the Thresher, lost with 129 men about 220 miles off Massachusetts April 10.

Five Killed In N.C. Crash Of Light Plane

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) —A light airplane in which a father was taking his three children and a friend for a joy ride crashed Sunday killing all five persons aboard.

Mecklenburg County police said Leonell C. Richards, 53, of Charlotte, apparently was buzzing the house of John Russell Adams, a passenger, on the edge of the city when the Piper Tri-Pacer stalled and slammed into the ground.

Killed were Richards, Adams, 33, and Richards' three children—John, 24, Alice Marie, 15, and Charlene, 10.

Six Of 16 GOP Governors In 'Rocky' Camp

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's 16 Republican governors are publicly as uncertain about their choices for the 1964 GOP nomination as a majority of their party colleagues appears to be.

But a state-by-state survey by the Associated Press of gubernatorial statements and actions—plus the assessment of local political observers—points to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York as being favored over potential rivals.

Most, if not all, of the governors will head their states' delegations to next year's nominating convention and presumably will have strong influence on how these delegations vote. The 16 states will cast a total of 452 votes toward the 655 needed for nomination.

In the judgment of those who know them best, the governors of Idaho, Kansas, Maine, Pennsylvania, Oregon and Rhode Island currently are classified as leaning toward Rockefeller.

Several of them are maintaining public neutrality. Among those there are reservations, based on the possible future political effect of Rockefeller's recent remarks.

Rockefeller himself has yet to announce his availability. If he does, New York would provide him with a strong takeoff base.

Gov. Paul Fannin of Arizona is beating the bushes for Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona. Gov. Archie M. Gubbrud of South Dakota also likes the senator's chances and believes, as of now, Goldwater would carry his state. He said he would "have to give the nod" to Goldwater at this time.

Gov. George W. Romney of Michigan, who may be headed for a favorite-son role despite his disclaimers, has invited both Rockefeller and Goldwater to display their wares in Michigan.

Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, who has said he could support Rockefeller enthusiastically, also is being urged in some quarters to become a favorite son candidate.

U.S. Flattops Deter Soviets, Sides Asserts

Admiral Declares Flyovers Point Up Moscow's Fears

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) —The commander of the Navy's largest fleet says he believes recent Soviet reconnaissance flights over American aircraft carriers point up Soviet fears that U.S. warships can block Communist expansion.

Adm. John H. Sides, chief of the U.S. Pacific Fleet, asserted the flyovers "indicate first and foremost the Russian interest in our carriers . . . They know that the very presence of our carrier forces in any area creates an immediate and formidable obstacle in the path to that area."

Sides made the comments in written answers to questions submitted by The Associated Press two months ago. The answers, made available this week, were reviewed by the Department of Defense. A Pacific Fleet source said several of the admiral's remarks had been altered, "but not significantly."

The Defense Department has revealed that long-range Soviet jets flew over four carriers in the Atlantic and Pacific in January, February and March.

Sides' support of American carrier strength comes at a time when Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara is studying the flattops' future role. McNamara is said to be analyzing the importance of the big ships when ballistic missiles of the Navy and Air Force are taking over most strategic targeting systems.

Here are the questions and Sides' replies:

Q. Do these overflights point up a Soviet feeling that carriers and U.S. sea power are major stumbling blocks to Communist expansion?

A. "Definitely yes. The effectiveness of our Navy as a major stumbling block to Communist expansion has been vividly demonstrated to the world on many occasions. I consider the Navy's role in the recent Cuban crisis a striking example of the capability built into our forces to quickly bring power to bear any place in the world and apply it to the degree that it is needed or desired."

Soviets Lack Flattops

Q. Specifically, do the flyovers reflect the fact the Russians don't have carriers to protect themselves against the Polaris submarine and are sensitive to this lack?

A. "Yes, I think this is true. . . . You may rest assured that any naval commander, regardless of nationality, wants those weapons systems in his arsenal that give him sufficient flexibility and mobility to wage a war that can never be really predicted."

Q. Do flyovers show up any vulnerability in extensive U.S. use of carriers and other surface ships?

A. "Definitely not. To the person who reads that another Russian plane has flown over one of our carriers at sea, with no additional information to judge by, the flight would most likely indicate vulnerability. But were he to know that the carrier had been making no attempt to conceal herself, that the Russian planes were detected, intercepted and escorted by our fighters to the carrier—fighters which could easily have (Continued on Page 2)

Appeal Spurned By Laos Reds

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Diplomats Sunday detected Red Chinese influence in a virtual rejection by the pro-Communist Pathet Lao of an appeal by Britain and the Soviet Union for peace in Laos.

A broadcast from Pathet Lao headquarters at Khang Khay accused the United States of interfering on the Plaine Des Jarres and said that unless it stopped "10 or even 20 appeals will bring no results."

As co-chairmen of the Geneva Conference on Laos, Britain and the Soviet Union sent their appeal last week. It was delivered to the Pathet Lao Thursday.

Diplomats in Vientiane said the Pathet Lao appeared to be taking the hard line of the Red Chinese who reject the Russians' cold war strategy of peaceful coexistence. The diplomats said the Soviet position on the Laotian crisis appears to have been overruled by the Red Chinese and the Communist North Vietnamese. Both these Laotian neighbors wield strong influence on the Pathet Lao.

Holiday Traffic Fatalities Soar To New Record

By United Press International

Motorists set a grim new record for traffic deaths Sunday night as the four-day Memorial Day weekend drew to an end. At least 472 persons had been killed in traffic as of 10:30 p.m. EDT.

The new total wiped out the previous high record set in 1961 when 462 persons were killed in traffic accidents during a similar four-day Memorial Day weekend. The National Safety Council feared that the current death rate of almost five persons an hour could lift the final count to a new high for any warm weather four-day holiday period. The record is 509 deaths during the 1961 Fourth of July holiday.

The traffic toll took a spurt in the waning hours of the holiday when five persons were killed in a two-car crack-up near Kalamazoo, Mich., Sunday night.

A United Press International count at 10:30 p.m. showed 472 deaths on the nation's highways since the holiday started at 6 p.m. Wednesday.

A breakdown:
Traffic 472
Drowning 106
Boating 11
Plane 20
Miscellaneous 90
Total 693
Contributing heavily to the death list were California with 53 and New York with 41. Texas counted 28 traffic fatalities and Pennsylvania had 22.

U.S. Believed Ahead In Missile Production

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon believes the United States now is substantially ahead of the Soviet Union in its production of nuclear missiles.

Paul H. Nitze, assistant defense secretary for international security affairs, said Sunday that a Minuteman ICBM or Polaris missile for submarine launching is being added to the deterrent force every day.

Nitze said, "We don't believe they are equaling that rate."

Crypt For Pope Being Prepared

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Workmen were reported Sunday to be preparing a burial crypt for Pope John XXIII next to the chapel of Pope St. Pius X in St. Peter's Basilica.

A highly reliable source inside the Vatican said the Pope would be buried in a white-tiled crypt with an ornate bronze door, to the right of the Chapel of Pius X, a friend of his early days as a priest.

There have been reports in the past, denied at the Vatican, that Pope John would be buried in the Rome Basilica of St. John Lateran. These reports apparently arose because the Lateran Basilica was Pope John's favorite among the four major Roman basilicas.

Crowds Keep Vatican Vigil

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Thousands came to St. Peter's Square Sunday as thousands always have on Sunday for the Pope's blessing from his window.

But the crowd came this Sunday in sadness and with devotion, knowing Pope John XXIII would not appear at the window. Pope John gave his blessing on this Pentecost Sunday, but only those close to his death bed could hear.

Vast St. Peter's Square was hushed from its usual bustle and noise. The sound everywhere was the sound of voices in prayer, with a few tourists here and there chattering.

Rain fell in torrents for a while, driving the crowds across the slippery cobblestones to shelter under the curve of the colonnades.

A few continued to kneel unprotected in the downpour. They did not look up from their prayers. When the sun came out later, full and hot, they were still kneeling. Vapor rose from their sodden clothes.

People Of Many Faiths Voice Prayers For Pope

LONDON (AP) — With uncommon unanimity, men of many faiths throughout the world Sunday followed Pope John XXIII's struggle with death, prayed for him, and praised him as a man of peace in an angry age.

In large gatherings, in small groups or in private — on both sides of the Iron Curtain—Roman Catholics and non-Catholics turned their thoughts and hopes to the humble Italian tenant farmer's son who dedicated his reign as Roman Catholic pontiff to peace on earth and goodwill toward men.

Protestants and Jews joined Catholics in prayers for him. The Communists joined capitalists in praise of him.

Speaking in England's ancient Canterbury Cathedral, the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsey, described Pope John as a man who had captured the imagination of the world.

New Collapse Brings Death Step Nearer

High Prelate Says Holy Father 'Going Out Like A Candle'

VATICAN CITY, Monday (AP) —Enduring extreme pain and a new collapse, Pope John XXIII carried his mortal struggle into a new day today, marshalling his ebbing strength to give blessings to the world.

"The Holy Father is passing away most slowly, going out like a candle," a high prelate told newsmen. Vatican Radio said the 81-year-old Roman Catholic pontiff "seems to be living alone with God, speaking with Him."

Since the Pope's critical turn for the worse Friday, doctors have said each day probably would be his last. But early today the pontiff's strong heart still beat despite the strain of rising temperatures and the collapse Sunday night.

The Pope "rallied a little" after the collapse at 7:30 p.m. Sunday (1:30 p.m., EST), the Vatican announced, and his doctors reported that "the end is not imminent."

The Vatican Radio added at 11 p.m. that the Pope "is slowly sinking, and death is not far away" but that "at present it is impossible to tell when the end will come."

Mind Remains Clear

"The Holy Father still has full lucidity of mind," the Vatican Press Office reported at 10:15. "He suffers very much and understands he suffers."

The Vatican Radio explained that the Pope had renewed his blessings for the world after his rally and also had recited the prayer "ut unum sint" (that they be one), apparently dedicated to his hopes for Christian unity.

The nature of the Pope's collapse after a period of steady worsening in his condition was not explained, but it apparently brought him as close to death as he had been.

There were unofficial reports that the Pope was suffering violent spasms of pain from time to time. His doctors were reportedly giving him pain killers and heart stimulants by injection.

The pontiff was described as fully lucid but unable to raise his hand to bless those at his bedside as he had during other conscious moments in his hours of crisis.

Cardinal At Bedside

Fernando Cardinal Cento, major Penitentiary of the Roman Catholic Church, went to the Pope's bedside. The cardinal, who was with the Pope much of Saturday, has the duty of leading prayers for a dying pontiff.

"All the faithful in the world are asked to pray," Vatican Radio said.

Without telling the public that the collapse had occurred, the Vatican Press Office announced at 7:30 p.m. a one word communique in Italian: "Gravissimo" — very grave.

It was not until an hour later that the Vatican disclosed there had been a collapse, without giving details.

Earlier the Roman Catholic leader gave his blessing to the world after hearing Mass celebrated in an adjoining room. It was Pentecost Sunday, one of his church's most joyful feast days and a particular favorite of Pope John.

After the blessing Pope John slumped into a new crisis. Vatican officials reported his temperature had risen from 101.3 to beyond 102. They said his pulse rate had increased to between 130 and 135. Normal is between 70 and 75 for persons of middle age.

As he failed, he continued to pray, giving his blessing to his associates, relatives, friends, missionaries, to children, to the ill and to all the world, the report said.

"I've been searching for an answer to what to do after I get out of school," Meredith said, "and the biggest need now is to help in some way young Negroes to better train themselves."

Another top Negro leader, Roy Wilkins, left Jackson Saturday night after being released from jail under $1,000 bond. Wilkins, who is executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), was arrested Saturday for picketing.

Holiday Traffic Fatalities Soar To New Record

By United Press International

Motorists set a grim new record for traffic deaths Sunday night as the four-day Memorial Day weekend drew to an end. At least 472 persons had been killed in traffic as of 10:30 p.m. EDT.

The new total wiped out the previous high record set in 1961 when 462 persons were killed in traffic accidents during a similar four-day Memorial Day weekend.

The National Safety Council feared that the current death rate of almost five persons an hour could lift the final count to a new high for any warm weather four-day holiday period. The record is 509 deaths during the 1961 Fourth of July holiday.

The traffic toll took a spurt in the waning hours of the holiday when five persons were killed in a two-car crash near Kalamazoo, Mich., Sunday night.

A United Press International count at 10:30 p.m. showed 472 deaths on the nation's highways since the holiday started at 6 p.m. Wednesday.

A breakdown: Traffic 472, Drowning 100, Boating 11, Plane 20, Miscellaneous 90, Total 693.

Contributing heavily to the death list were California with 53 and New York with 41. Texas counted 28 traffic fatalities and Pennsylvania had 22.

U.S. Believed Ahead In Missile Production

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon believes the United States now is substantially ahead of the Soviet Union in its production of nuclear missiles.

Paul H. Nitze, assistant defense secretary for international security affairs, said Sunday that a Minuteman ICBM or Polaris missile for submarine launching is being added to the deterrent force every day.

Nitze said, "We don't believe they are equaling that rate."

Crypt For Pope Being Prepared

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Workmen were reported Sunday to be preparing a burial crypt for Pope John XXIII next to the chapel of Pope St. Pius X in St. Peter's Basilica.

A highly reliable source inside the Vatican said the Pope would be buried in a white-tiled crypt with an ornate bronze door, to the right of the Chapel of St. Pius X, a friend of his early days as a priest.

There have been reports in the past, denied at the Vatican, that Pope John would be buried in the Rome Basilica of St. John Lateran. These reports apparently arose because the Lateran Basilica was Pope John's favorite among the four major Roman basilicas.

Crowds Keep Vatican Vigil

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Thousands came to St. Peter's Square Sunday as thousands always have on Sunday for the Pope's blessing from his window.

But the crowd came this Sunday in sadness and with devotion, knowing Pope John XXIII would not appear at the window.

Pope John gave his blessing on this Pentecost Sunday, but only those close to his death bed could hear.

Vast St. Peter's Square was hushed from its usual bustle and noise. The sound everywhere was the sound of voices in prayer, with a few tourists here and there chattering.

Rain fell in torrents for a while, driving the crowds across the slippery cobblestones to shelter under the curve of the colonnades.

A few continued to kneel unprotected in the downpour. They did not look up from their prayers. When the sun came out later, full and hot, they were still kneeling. Vapor rose from their sodden clothes.

People Of Many Faiths Voice Prayers For Pope

LONDON (AP) — With uncommon unanimity, men of many faiths throughout the world Sunday followed Pope John XXIII's struggle with death, prayed for him, and praised him as a man of peace in an angry age.

In large gatherings, in small groups or in private — on both sides of the Iron Curtain — Roman Catholics and non-Catholics turned their thoughts and hopes to the humble Italian tenant farmer's son who dedicated his reign as Roman Catholic pontiff to peace on earth and goodwill toward men.

Protestants and Jews joined Catholics in prayers for him. He had been deeply moved by the pontiff's illness and his message was sent in the name of Jews in 65 countries.

In Paris' Sephardic synagogue Rabbi Cassorla included a prayer in the usual Saturday night services of this congregation of Jews of Spanish origin.

New Collapse Brings Death Step Nearer

High Prelate Says Holy Father 'Going Out Like A Candle'

VATICAN CITY, Monday (AP) — Enduring extreme pain and a new collapse, Pope John XXIII carried his mortal struggle into a new day today, marshaling his ebbing strength to give blessings to the world.

"The Holy Father is passing away most slowly, going out like a candle," a high prelate told newsmen. Vatican Radio said the 81-year-old Roman Catholic pontiff "seems to be living alone with God, speaking with Him."

Since the Pope's critical turn for the worse Friday, doctors have said each day probably would be his last. But early today the pontiff's strong heart still beat despite the strain of rising temperatures and the collapse Sunday night.

The Pope "rallied a little" after the collapse at 7:30 p.m. Sunday (1:30 p.m., EST), the Vatican announced, and his doctors reported that "the end is not imminent."

The Vatican Radio added at 11 p.m. that the Pope "is slowly sinking, and death is not far away" but that "at present it is impossible to tell when the end will come."

The Vatican Radio still has full lucidity of mind," the Vatican Press Office reported at 10:15. "He suffers very much and understands he suffers."

The Vatican Radio explained that the Pope had renewed his blessings for the world after his rally and also had recited the prayer "ut unum sint" (that they be one), apparently dedicated to his hopes for Christian unity.

The nature of the Pope's collapse after a period of steady worsening in his condition was not explained, but it apparently brought him as close to death as he had been.

There were unofficial reports that the Pope was suffering violent spasms of pain from time to time. His doctors were reportedly giving him pain killers and heart stimulants by injection.

The pontiff was described as fully lucid but unable to raise his hand to bless those at his bedside as he had during other conscious moments in his hours of crisis.

Cardinal At Bedside

Fernando Cardinal Cento, major Penitentiary of the Roman Catholic Church, went to the Pope's bedside. The cardinal, who was with the Pope much of Saturday, has the duty of leading prayers for a dying pontiff.

"All the faithful in the world are asked to pray," Vatican Radio said.

Without telling the public that the collapse had occurred, the Vatican Press Office announced at 7:30 p.m. a word communique in Italian: "Gravissimo" — very grave.

It was not until an hour later that the Vatican disclosed there had been a collapse, without giving details.

Earlier the Roman Catholic leader gave his blessing to the world after hearing Mass celebrated in an adjoining room. It was Pentecost Sunday, one of his church's most joyful feast days and a particular favorite of Pope John.

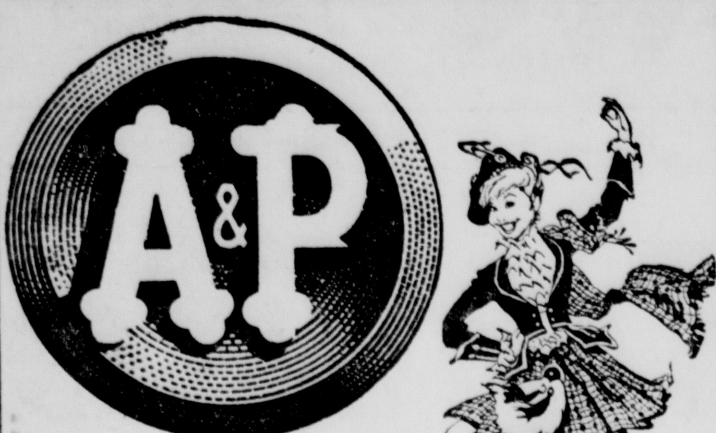

After the blessing Pope John slumped into a new crisis. Vatican officials reported his temperature had risen from 101.3 to beyond 102. They said his pulse rate had increased to between 130 and 135. Normal is between 70 and 75 for persons of middle age.

As he failed, he continued to pray, giving his blessing to his associates, relatives, friends, missionaries, to children, to the ill and to all the world, the report said.

Wertz To Meet With Railroad, Union Teams

Negotiators Will Brief Secretary

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representatives of the railroads and their operating unions are to meet Tuesday with Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wertz to tell him where they stand in negotiations aimed at forestalling a nationwide rail strike.

The Labor Department announced Sunday the secretary will meet with the negotiators who have been holding sessions since May 20 but have reported no progress toward avoiding the strike which can start legally any time after midnight June 11.

A Labor Department spokesman shielded away from saying that Wertz had called on the negotiators to report to him. But the spokesman acknowledged that the meeting had been arranged at the secretary's request. It seems obvious Wertz is anxious to do whatever he can to speed an agreement needed to prevent a walkout the Kennedy administration regards as intolerable.

Central to the dispute, which now has dragged on for nearly four years, is the question of revising work rules for manning trains. The railroads say that outmoded rules—they call it featherbedding—are costing them nearly $600 million annually in pay for unnecessary jobs.

The railroads, backed by reports from two presidential commissions, want to abolish about 40,000 jobs now held by firemen on oil-burning freight train and yard engines.

A 15-man presidential commission last year recommended that 13,000 of these jobs be terminated forthwith with the remainder to be eliminated by attrition.

Five Waterski 230 Miles Naval Academy Will Honor 25

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Five men making what was believed to be the longest water skiing trip on record in West Virginia arrived in Charleston Sunday afternoon when they were adorned with leis by the wife of Gov. W. W. Barron.

Four men were scheduled to start the 230 mile journey from Wheeling Friday but a fifth, Glenn Kittle, about 35, Moundsville, joined the group at the last minute.

Jerry Koscoe, 34, Moundsville, said the two runabouts towing him and Ruddy Renshaw, 38, New Martinsville; Bob Carmichael, 33, Graysville, Marshall County, and Sam Schupbach, 37, Hannibal, Ohio, encountered no difficulty. However, the cruiser pulling Kittle broke a propeller and shaft which had to be repaired at the Coast Guard station in Pt. Pleasant Saturday.

Koscoe, father of five children said the skiers "made the trip in fine shape." He noted, however, that he developed some swelling in the ankles.

Except for some delay at the first lock on the Ohio River, the trip went off on schedule. The quintet skimmed down the Ohio to New Martinsville where they had stayed Friday night. Their second night was spent at Pt. Pleasant where they switched to the Kanawha River Sunday morning . . . stopping only at St. Albans for a brief lunch. They continued on to the statehouse where they were met by Mrs. Opal Barron holding an armful of leis.

Fresh Racial Pressures Slated In Courts, Streets

WASHINGTON (AP) — A week-end chorus of civil rights talk provided a gauge Sunday of mounting pressures for legislation to hasten desegregation and to discourage increasing use of mass demonstrations by Negroes.

The theme, with variations, that new laws to break racial barriers are needed quickly to forestall direct-action violence, was heard from in and out of Congress, from Republicans and a Democrat and from whites and a Negro.

The expressing of opinion in statements, speeches and broadcast interviews came as a verbal prelude to a week expected to produce fresh racial pressures and counterpressures in courts, legislative halls and, more tensely, in the streets.

Focal point of the legal struggle will be Monday in Birmingham, Ala., where Gov. George C. Wallace is under order to appear in federal court to explain why he should not be forbidden to carry out his often-repeated threat to block, in person, any effort to integrate Alabama schools. Such a court-ordered effort to enter Negroes in the University of Alabama is expected not later than next week.

Congress will be the scene of multiple moves and maneuvers in the civil rights field, the most important of which could be the submission by President Kennedy of two major bills.

But in advance of the administration proposals, a group of 20 House Republicans plans Monday to offer their own legislation. In a statement Sunday they accused the administration of "foot dragging" which it said is "irreconcilable" with the temper of the times which demand immediate action.

Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., entered a strong dissent to the idea that new civil rights legislation is needed, saying "they're not using the legislation that they have now."

Speaking on a recorded television interview program, Robertson strongly condemned the mass demonstrations, calling them "the greatest organized movement of violence since the depression."

Views on the civil rights dilemma came from: Roy T. Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, who said Negroes are "more militant and impatient" than ever before. He said he fears "some regretful incidents" unless Congress asserts itself promptly in the civil rights field.

Wilkins appeared on a radio-television interview with Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., which was recorded prior to Wilkins' picketing arrest Saturday in Jackson. The Negro leader insisted that President Kennedy should cut off all federal funds for states "that defy the Constitution and refuse to go along" on civil rights.

Nine Arrested As Terrorists

MONTREAL (AP) — Nine men have been arrested in connection with terrorist activities in Montreal, a police source said Sunday night.

Terrorist activities of the outlawed Le Front de Liberation Quebecois (the Quebec Liberation Front) have been aimed at separating predominantly French-speaking Quebec from Canada through violence.

The source would give no other details. Earlier reports said among those arrested was a Belgian, 32, trained in Cuba.

A garage mechanic also was reported arrested. There were reports he was the man who had made the bombs which damaged federal government properties in the Montreal area in the last two months.

Le Front de Liberation Quebecois has proclaimed itself responsible for all the bombings, which included a day of terror in suburban English-speaking Westmount when 15 mail boxes were blown up.

The bombings have caused the death of a civilian night watchman at a downtown army recruiting center. An army engineer has been in a critical condition in a hospital since a bomb blew up in his face in one of the Westmount mail boxes.

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Naval Academy will honor 25 of its graduates Monday at the second dress parade of the June Week celebration.

Midshipmen who have demonstrated officer-like qualities will be given commendatory letters by Rear Admiral C.C. Kirkpatrick, superintendent of the academy.

The dress parade is the first of several events Monday, as the five-day June Week celebration picks up tempo after a Sunday lull.

Monday night, Admiral Kirkpatrick will entertain the members of the graduating class and their guests at a garden party. Also scheduled Monday night are three dances, including the "N" dance for midshipmen who letter in intercollegiate sports at the academy.

Among those to be given awards by Admiral Kirkpatrick are Ronald O. Schowalter of St. Louis, Mo. who is commander of the brigade of midshipmen, and Deputy Brigade Commander David B. Puckett of Princeton, Ind.

The commander of the color company, Charles S. Minter III of Annapolis, also will receive an award, as will Patrick A. Day of Oakland, Calif., commander of the 7th Company, which finished second behind Minter's 9th company.

prevented the planes from even approaching the force, if desired—he would see that the carrier is far less vulnerable than the single fact of a Russian flyover may indicate.

Q. Has the effect of the flyovers been to point up any Soviet vulnerability on the high seas?

A. "I think the flyovers indicate first and foremost the Russian interest in our carriers—carriers which have an immense capability which the Soviets do not have—a capability which does spell vulnerability to their forces, sea and land forces alike."

Q. You have said the flyovers are good practice for the U.S. Navy. Could the same thing apply to the Russians with these flights being merely dramatic practice?

A. "Long-range, over-water reconnaissance is a technique which needs constant practice, and certainly the Soviets get navigational recognition practice. But the ease with which they locate a ship whose departure and destination is public knowledge in peacetime is quite a different thing from the problem of locating a ship under wartime conditions."

Q. Are U.S. carriers being located by Soviet—or in the Pacific instances by Chinese Communist—shore-based detection equipment? Or are Soviet planes directed to the ships by tracking submarines?

A. "Ship movements during peacetime are not kept secret. Numerous sources are available to the Soviet and Chinese Communists for acquiring information on ports of departure and arrival. There have been no Chinese Communist overflights of our carriers in the Pacific."

Q. Did U.S. or allied advance warning systems—Dew Line, barrier flights, detection stations in the Far East or Europe—pick up the Soviet planes and track them to the carriers?

A. "In the instances of Atlantic overflights, the Soviet aircraft were detected by land-based radar sites en route to and returning from the open-ocean areas. The radar detection by U.S. forces in the Pacific was accomplished by the ships involved."

Flames Sweep Millwork Plant At Baltimore

Firemen Fight Big Blaze Seven Hours

BALTIMORE (AP)—More than 100 firemen continued sifting late Sunday through the remains of a southwest Baltimore millwork plant that was razed by a 10-alarm fire early Sunday morning.

A fire department official said they would remain on the scene for some time to make sure no lumber was still smoldering in the shell of the four-story plant.

Firemen battled for seven hours before bringing the blaze under control at Monumental Millwork, Inc., manufacturers of doors and window frames. Unofficial estimates of the damage ranged from several thousand dollars to nearly a million dollars, but company officials would make no estimates.

The fire department reported the first alarm was sounded at 10:52 p.m., EDT, Saturday. By 1 a.m. Sunday, some 50 pieces of equipment and 275 men were fighting to keep the blaze from spreading to a nearby stockyard.

All available pumpers in the area were sent to the scene because firemen were having difficulty maintaining sufficient water pressure, officials said.

The plant is made up of about seven connected brick buildings, three to four stories tall, making up about 90,000 square feet of floor space.

Spectators said two explosions caused the blaze to flare up, apparently when it reached stores of shellac and paint. Several walls collapsed as did nearly all the floors.

The fire was not considered under control officially until after 6 a.m. Even then, only ten pieces of equipment left the scene.

The cause of the fire was unknown. The blaze was confined to the plant.

Firemen discounted a report that a tank of benzine or gasoline was in or near the building. An early report said firemen were trying to find the tank before it exploded.

RFK Appeals For "Reason"

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy told a college graduating class Sunday that the current civil rights crisis "is not something that can be solved by governmental edict" but by enlightened individual efforts.

Kennedy touched on the racial problem in a commencement address at Trinity College here.

He told the class: "It is an intensely human problem and its ultimate solution will rest in the ability of men and women everywhere to recognize and follow their own best instincts."

"They will need guidance in this quest for right as opposed to wrong—for vision as opposed to blindness, for reason as opposed to hysteria. Our answer to the extremists must be to move quickly in establishing those reforms which all of us know in our hearts should have been made long ago."

Earlier in his talk, the President's brother said: "In the light of a truly freed mind, no prejudice can disguise itself as zeal, no bullying can masquerade as leadership, no pettiness can pose as importance. The freed mind will never confuse a sentimentality with a true emotion, an act of violence with an act of heroism, a slogan with a cause."

The attorney general has been working with the White House in developing civil rights legislation which the President is expected to send Congress this week.

U.N. Vote Change Would Hurt U.S., Study Shows

WASHINGTON (AP)—Aided by 350,000 population, has the same computers, American policy makers have decided it would be against the U.S. national interest to change the system of one nation, one vote in the United Nations.

And, without computers, they have concluded it would be politically impossible to alter this system now, even if the United States wanted a change.

The computer study under Harlan Cleveland, assistant secretary of state for international organization affairs, was set off by frequent calls for voting reform heard as the United Nations changes character.

The United Nations started off in 1945 with only 50 member states and a concept that the big powers on the Security Council would determine U.N. executive action. Now the United Nations has 111 members, and power has flowed toward the General Assembly to get around the veto-ridden Security Council.

Johnson Calls For Domestic Changes

JACKSONVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson said Sunday that "America will neither be pulverized by Communists nor demoralized by extremists."

But in a speech for MacMurray College commencement, Johnson said it is time to do some domestic housekeeping that would thwart these elements. Urging changes in many fields, he said that "we have not merely preserved the past, we have embalmied it and are keeping it in our parlor."

Forecasting an increase in population to 260 million persons before his listeners reached 40 years old, Johnson called for "a concerted effort toward enriching and improving our national life at home"—a task he said had been neglected since the 1930s.

Professors Named To Research Group

BALTIMORE (AP)—A Johns Hopkins professor and a former graduate were named Sunday to study the influence of scientific management techniques on higher education.

Dr. Francis E. Rourke, political science professor at Johns Hopkins, and Dr. Glenn E. Brooks, an assistant professor at Colorado College, were granted $55,000 by the Carnegie Corporation to conduct the research. Brooks is a 31-year-old graduate of Johns Hopkins.

Two Persons Lose Lives In Md. Traffic Accidents

By The Associated Press

Two persons died in separate traffic accidents this weekend, raising Maryland's highway death toll to 233, compared with 200 at this time last year.

State Police identified the latest victims as William Millard Arnold, 57, of St. Leonard. Police said he was walking along Maryland 2 about two miles south of St. Leonard when he apparently stepped into the roadway and was struck by a car late Saturday.

Earlier in the day, Jerry M. Rhoton, 58, of Williamsport was killed when the car in which he was a passenger went off the roadway on Kemps Mill road, about two miles north of Williamsport in Washington County. The driver, Carl Richard Shives, 30, of Hagerstown was treated for cuts and an injured eye at Washington County Hospital.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A special matinee performance of "Showboat" will be given for some 2,600 underprivileged and handicapped children in the Washington area on June 13 under auspices of Mrs. John F. Kennedy, the White House announced Sunday.

The performance will be given at the Shady Grove Music Fair in nearby Gaithersburg, Md., where Keely Smith and Andy Devine are featured players in the Jerome Kern-Oscar Hammerstein musical.

Mrs. Kennedy has lent her name to the event this year, but she will not attend. Mrs. Paul Douglas, wife of the senator from Illinois, and Mrs. John Sherman Cooper, wife of the Kentucky senator, will represent her and act as hostesses for the youngsters from Junior Village and other District homes and special schools.

Flames Sweep Millwork Plant At Baltimore

Firemen Fight Big Blaze Seven Hours

BALTIMORE (AP)—More than 100 firemen continued sifting late Sunday through the remains of a southwest Baltimore millwork plant that was razed by a 10-alarm fire early Sunday morning.

A fire department official said they would remain on the scene for some time to make sure no lumber was still smoldering in the shell of the four story plant.

Firemen battled for seven hours before bringing the blaze under control at Monumental Millwork, Inc., manufacturers of doors and window frames. Unofficial estimates of the damage ranged from several thousand dollars to nearly a million dollars, but company officials would make no estimates.

The fire department reported the first alarm was sounded at 10:52 p.m., EDT, Saturday. By 1 a.m. Sunday, some 50 pieces of equipment and 275 men were fighting to keep the blaze from spreading to a nearby stockyard.

All available pumpers in the area were sent to the scene because firemen were having difficulty maintaining sufficient water pressure, officials said.

The plant is made up of about seven connected brick buildings, three to four stories tall, making up about 90,000 square feet of floor space.

Spectators said two explosions caused the blaze to flare up, apparently when it reached stores of shellac and paint. Several walls collapsed as did nearly all the floors.

The fire was not considered under control officially until after 6 a.m. Even then, only ten pieces of equipment left the scene.

The cause of the fire was unknown. The blaze was confined to the plant.

Firemen discounted a report that a tank of benzene or gasoline was in or near the building. An early report said firemen were trying to find the tank before it exploded.

RFK Appeals For "Reason"

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy told a college graduating class Sunday that the current civil rights crisis "is not something that can be solved by governmental edict" but by enlightened individual efforts.

Kennedy touched on the racial problem in a commencement address at Trinity College here.

He told the class: "It is an intensely human problem and its ultimate solution will rest in the ability of men and women everywhere to recognize and follow their own best instincts."

"They will need guidance in this quest for right as opposed to wrong—for vision as opposed to blindness, for reason as opposed to hysteria. Our answer to the extremists must be to move quickly in establishing those reforms which all of us know in our hearts should have been made long ago."

Earlier in his talk, the President's brother said: "In the light of a truly freed mind, no prejudice can disguise itself as zeal, no bullying can masquerade as leadership, no pettiness can pose as importance. The freed mind will never confuse a sentimentality with a true emotion, an act of violence with an act of heroism, a slogan with a cause."

The attorney general has been working with the White House in developing civil rights legislation which the President is expected to send Congress this week.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I wish I could get my hands on that little snip who didn't want to invite her fiancé's friends to their wedding because they were truck drivers.

I am a graduate of Hunter College and I married a truck driver. We have three bright children, own a comfortable home, take a three-week vacation every year (twice to Europe since '56) and I have a beautiful nine-stripe beaver coat with a pink collar.

The girl who wrote that letter must be living in the dark ages. Today truck drivers make a handsome living. Many of our friends who are professional people and executives of large companies are struggling to get by, but not us.

I am proud to be married to a Knight Of The Road. SHE should have it so good.

—THE KNIGHT'S LADY
DEAR LADY: Many truck drivers' wives wrote to say it's a great life, but you said it best. Thanks for your letter.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I went steady with Eddie for a year. We decided to call it quits because of religious differences which could not be resolved. I'm 20, so please don't think this letter is from a giddy high school sophomore.

It took several months to get over my heartache but I did recover and I'm now dating a terrific guy who is a friend of Eddie's.

When we first started to date I made him promise to keep it strictly platonic. I had had enough of love and didn't want to be hurt again. He has kept his word, darn it, and this is my problem. I'm sick to death of this brother-sister kick. I've fallen hard and I'm sure he has, too, but he's afraid to make the first move and it's all my fault. We've been dating for three months and if he gives me one more goodnight handshake I'll scream.

—SELF-VICTIMIZED
DEAR SELF-VICTIMIZED: Don't scream. You may frighten him away. Just tell him in plain English that your busted heart has healed and you are ready to give love another chance. If he gives you a handshake after THAT confession, he's no candidate.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: It's the time of the year when my husband begins to hear "the call of the wild."

We have two sons, 10 and 12 years of age. Ever since the boys have been old enough to walk we have spent three weeks every summer camping out — and I DO mean out. My husband picks the most God-forsaken, primitive spots he can find. Some of our camp sites have been so rocky and miserable even the Indians didn't want 'em.

Last year I told him I was through dragging along dishes, pots, pans, bedding, and canned goods, washing clothes by hand and doing without plumbing. A person has to be crazy to leave the conveniences of home and work the way I did. He agreed it was the last time he'd ask me to do it.

Well, now he's talking tents again and I am doing a slow burn. I am perfectly willing to rent a cabin, but no more roughing it. He accuses me of being selfish and depriving the boys of real outdoor life. What do you think, Ann?

—THE MULE
(His Name For Me.)
DEAR MOTHER: Tell nature boy you've had it with the Lewis and Clark bit and you're holding him to his promise of last year. The boys can get plenty outdoor life and still sleep in a bed at night and take a bath in a tub. If he insists on another tent vacation, tell him to drop post cards when he goes into town for sunburn lotion and mosquito netting—that you'll be waiting for him at home.

CONFIDENTIAL TO JUST CURIOUS: So am I. If someone is lifting my material I'd like to know about it. Please send me the columns which "sound so familiar." I would appreciate it.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed stamped envelope. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠ 743 ♥ AK8 ♦ AJ9 ♣ 8652

The bidding has proceeded:

East South

What do you bid?

A—Pass. This hand is not of the type that lends itself conveniently to a take-out double. You need only visualize that your hand will be the future dummy and that it will have very little trick taking power for partner. To put it in another way, if you were the dealer, you would not have had a sound opening bid, for the hand contains only 12 points and not even a biddable suit. There is the further disadvantage that you will be forcing your partner to bid at the level of two.

Q. 2—Partner opens with one heart and you hold:

♠ KQ75 ♥ A76 ♦ 6542 ♣ 72

What is your response?

A—Two hearts. This is superior to a bid of one spade, because you have only a fair hand and cannot afford to bid both spades and hearts. In such cases the best procedure is a single raise if partner has opened with a major suit.

Q. 3—Opponent opens with one diamond and you hold:

♠ AKJ105 ♥ A1053 ♦ K32 ♣ 5

What do you bid?

A—Double. If partner responds with two clubs, you are strong enough to bid two spades with reasonable safety. If your answer was one spade, stay after school.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠ J107654 ♥ K975 ♦ 42 ♣ 41

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1 ♦ Double ?

What do you bid?

A—One spade. With this distribution including so many cards in the major suits, surely you will wish to take some action at some time during the auction and there is no better time than the present. If you wait, the bidding may get too complicated for you to enter the conversation conveniently, and you will thus be shut out.

Q. 5—You are South with a 90

part score and hold:

♠ AJ6 ♥ A95 ♦ K8432 ♣ 72

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid?

A—Two spades. With the advanced part score you are not in position to temporize, since a two diamond response would not be considered forcing. The bid least likely to complicate matters is a simple raise. Since it is a bid over score, partner will recognize that you may have more than a normal raise so that, if he has excess values, he will be in position to proceed.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠ AK ♥ A4 ♦ 852 ♣ A98653

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ 1 ♠

2 ♣ Pass 2 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—Two spades, a cue bid forcing to game. Now that partner has rebid hearts, you can safely prepare to play for a game in that suit or it might lead to a sound contract of three no trumps.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠ AK6 ♥ AQ82 ♦ AQ7 ♣ J83

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

Pass Pass 1 ♠ ?

What do you bid?

A—Double. This hand, containing 20 points is too big for a no trump overall. It is necessary, therefore, to double and bid two no trump over partner's response of two in a suit. This will just about describe the strength of your hand.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠ Q752 ♥ AK754 ♦ KJ ♣ 93

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass

4 ♠ Pass 4 ♥ Pass

5 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—There is little doubt that your partnership will reach at least a small slam in spades but, the better to investigate grand slam possibilities, bid five diamonds at this point to show possession of the king. If partner makes a further drastic try by bidding something like six clubs to show the king, we would then bid six hearts to show the second round control of that suit.

Kansas Lake Is Fitted With A Rubber Bottom

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (UPI)—Toss a rock in a lake here and it may bounce back.

The lake has a rubber bottom. The man-made lake, the second of its kind, was fitted with a butyl rubber bottom to keep its salt water from seeping into nearby streams. The saline solution is vital in removing liquefied petroleum gas from underground storage caverns.

It took 45 tons of rubber to cover the six-acre lake bottom. It will hold about 300,000 barrels of salt water.

Underground caverns are used for storage of liquefied petroleum. During the summer months, the fuel is pumped into the caves. When winter comes and demand for fuel rises, the salt water is flooded into the holes and pushes the two million barrels of liquid gas into pipelines.

In summer, when production exceeds current demand, the fuel is pressured into the caverns and the salt water is forced back into the lake.

Cities Service Oil Company was faced with the problem of storing the salt water. Fresh water could not be used because it would dissolve the walls of the salt-formation caverns. So salt water and the rubber bottom lake were devised.

Conservation men demanded that possible contamination of fresh water be avoided, so the rubber pants were installed. Mobil built a similar rubber bottom pool earlier in Texas.

Deep wells are used to acquire more water when needed and to dispose of surplus.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Sleeping Beauties Are Wide-Awake Charmers

Any girl who has the wide-awake, alert, vivacious kind of charm you envy will tell you that one of the basic foundations of her beauty regimen is proper sleep.

It may be possible, once in a while, to get away with carelessness in this regard. Most of the time, for almost every woman, it's a sheer necessity to make sure of that eight-hours beauty sleep, every night.

The "eight hours" edict does have exceptions: trouble is, too many people THINK they are exceptions when they aren't. Those who can get along with very much less are rare. Fatigue, dark circles, that "can't-get-going" feeling, that haggard look—the consequences will not be fended off by any amount of excuses.

There are those who need more sleep; occasional people with a weird schedule which really DOES suit their needs; people who worry because they want to sleep and can't. In the case of insomnia, it's perfectly true that bed rest is almost as good as being sound asleep . . . and the worst thing you can do is worry so much it adds to the insomnia!

Right now, we're talking about women who are tempted away from getting adequate sleep; in calm and honest moments you probably know (by those fatigue symptoms) whether this is your group. There are so many temptations to stay up too late, and they can be terribly alluring.

If you've been guilty of excessive candle-burning, resolve now to re-schedule your life. It's that important!—to your health, to your looks, to your personality, to your brain-work. Perhaps you need to quiet down at an earlier hour in the evening, to get in the mood. Maybe you need more exercise or fresh air during the day. It may mean cutting down on your night life somewhat, or promising yourself to go home earlier when you're out (and keeping that promise as a debt of honor).

Whatever it takes, you'll be compensated many times over in renewed vitality. Think about it; SLEEP on it—and you'll see!

WOULD YOU HIRE YOURSELF? Think of yourself as a prospective employer might see you and gain new insight into your "hire-ability." The booklet, "Your Steps to a Successful Career," can show you the proper career-building methods to further yourself in the business world. A copy's yours for 10c, along with the stamped, return envelope, sent to John Robert Powers in care of this newspaper.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I wish I could get my hands on that little snip who didn't want to invite her fiancé's friends to their wedding because they were truck drivers.

I am a graduate of Hunter College and I married a truck driver. We have three bright children, own a comfortable home, take a three-week vacation every year (twice to Europe since '56) and I have a beautiful nine-stripe beaver coat with a mink collar.

The girl who wrote that letter must be living in the dark ages. Today truck drivers make a handsome living. Many of our friends who are professional people and executives of large companies are struggling to get by, but not us.

I am proud to be married to a Knight Of The Road. SHE should have it so good.

—THE KNIGHT'S LADY
DEAR LADY: Many truck drivers' wives wrote to say it's a great life, but you said it best. Thanks for your letter.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I went steady with Eddie for a year. We decided to call it quits because of religious differences which could not be resolved. I'm 20, so please don't think this letter is from a giddy high school sophomore.

It took several months to get over my heartache but I did recover and I'm now dating a terrific guy who is a friend of Eddie's.

When we first started to date I made him promise to keep it

strictly platonic. I had had enough of love and didn't want to be hurt again. He has kept his word, darn it, and this is my problem. I'm sick to death of this brother-sister kick. I've fallen hard and I'm sure he has, too, but he's afraid to make the first move and it's all my fault.

We've been dating for three months and if he gives me one more goodnight handshake I'll scream.

—SELF-VICTIMIZED
DEAR SELF - VICTIMIZED: Don't scream. You may frighten him away. Just tell him in plain English that your busted heart has healed and you are ready to give love another chance. If he gives you a handshake after THAT confession, he's no candidate.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: It's the time of the year when my husband begins to hear "the call of the wild."

We have two sons, 10 and 12 years of age. Ever since the boys have been old enough to walk we have spent three weeks every summer camping out — and I do mean out. My husband picks the most God-forsaken, primitive spots he can find. Some of our camp sites have been so rocky and miserable even the Indians didn't want 'em.

Last year I told him I was through dragging along dishes, pots, pans, bedding, and canned goods, washing clothes by hand and doing without plumbing. A person has to be crazy to leave the conveniences of home and work the way I did. He agreed it was the last time he'd ask me to do it.

Well, now he's taking tents again and I am doing a slow burn. I am perfectly willing to rent a cabin, but no more roughing it. He accuses me of being selfish and depriving the boys of their outdoor life. What do you think, Ann?

—THE MULE
(THIS NAME FOR ME)
DEAR MOTHER: Tell nature boy you've had it with the Lewis and Clark and it's your holding him to his promise of last year. The boys can get plenty outdoor life and still sleep in a bed at night and take a bath in a tub. If he insists on another tent vacation, tell him to drop tent cards when he goes into town for sunburn lotion and mosquito netting—that you'll be waiting for him at home.

TO JUST CURIOUS: So am I. I'd like to lift my material I'd like to know about it. Please send me the columns which "sound so familiar." I would appreciate it.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed stamped envelope. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Flickering Out

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (UPI) — The Ethiopian Herald said Sunday U.S. Negroes' last hope under President Kennedy "is flickering out."

The article added "The White House is on the white side and Negroes have to look for support elsewhere."

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
(1963 By The Chicago Tribune)

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠ 743 ♠ AKS ♠ AJ9 ♠ 8652

The bidding has proceeded:

East South

1 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid?

A.—Pass. This hand is not of the type that lends itself conveniently to a takeout double. You need only visualize that your hand will have the future dummy and that it will have very little trick taking power for partner. To put it in another way, if you were the dealer, you would not have had a sound opening bid, for the hand contains only 12 points and not even a biddable suit. There is the further disadvantage that you will be forcing your partner to bid at the level of two.

Q. 2—Partner opens with one heart and you hold:

♠ K75 ♠ A76 ♠ 6542 ♠ 72

What is your response?

A.—Two hearts. This is superior to a bid of one spade, because you have only a fair hand and cannot afford to bid both the spades and hearts. In such cases the best procedure is a single raise if partner has opened with a major suit.

Q. 3—Opponent opens with one diamond and you hold:

♠ AKJ105 ♠ A1053 ♠ K32 ♠ 45

What do you bid?

A.—Double. If partner responds with two clubs, you are strong enough to bid two spades with reasonable safety. If your answer was one spade, stay after school.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠ J107654 ♠ K975 ♠ 42 ♠ 44

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1 ♠ Double ?

What do you bid?

A.—One spade. With this distribution including so many cards in the major suits, surely you will wish to take some action at the time during the auction and there is no better time than the present. If you wait, the bidding may get too complicated for you to enter the conversation conveniently, and you will thus be shut out.

Q. 5—You are South with a 90 point score and hold:

♠ A36 ♠ A95 ♠ K8432 ♠ 72

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid?

A.—Two spades. With the advanced part score you are not in position to temporize, since a two diamond response would not be considered forcing. The bid least likely to complicate matters is a simple raise. Since it is a bid over score, partner will recognize that you may have more than a normal raise so that, if he has excess values, he will be in position to proceed.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠ AK ♠ A4 ♠ 852 ♠ A98653

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ 1 ♠

2 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades, a cue bid forcing to game. Now that partner has rebid hearts, you can safely prepare to play for a game in that suit or it might lead to a sound contract of three no trump.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠ AK6 ♠ AQ82 ♠ AQ7 ♠ J83

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

Pass Pass 1 ♠ ?

What do you bid?

A.—Double. This hand, containing 20 points is too big for a one no trump overall. It is necessary, therefore, to double and bid two no trump over partner's response of two in a suit. This will just about describe the strength of your hand.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠ K752 ♠ AK754 ♠ KJ ♠ 93

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass

4 ♠ Pass 4 ♠ Pass

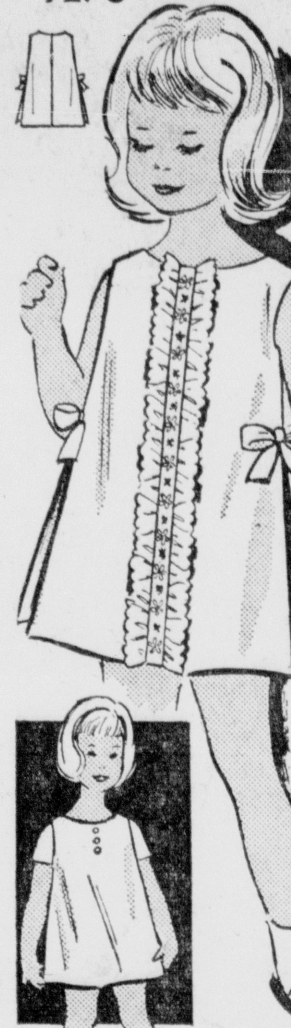

5 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—There is little doubt that your partnership will reach at least a small slam in spades but, the better to investigate grand slam possibilities, bid five diamonds at this point to show possession of the king. If partner makes a further daring try by bidding something like six clubs to show the king, you can bid six hearts to show the second round control of that suit.

A Calendar With Tax-Free Days?

It is testimony to the high level of taxation that most measures considered by Congress are weighed for their effect on the coffers of the Treasury. Even a relatively non-fiscal matter like changing the calendar has evoked warnings from fiscal officers that a tax year would be clearly defined, even if the calendar year is not.

Sen. Hiram Fong of Hawaii has introduced a bill to replace the Gregorian calendar with one invented by a citizen of his state. The proposed calendar, among other features, would have a New Year's Day each year that would not belong to either the old or the new year. It would also declare leap year to be entitled to another undated day every four years.

Joseph Campbell, comptroller general of the United States, informed the Senate Commerce Committee that if the bill has to be considered he would propose two amendments. It must be spelled out, he said, which year New Year's Day would fall into for tax purposes, since it would be an extra day belonging to neither the old nor the new year.

And if leap year is to be an extra day sandwiched in between June 30 and July 1, a ruling must be made as to which year that event belongs, since the government's fiscal year ends on June 30.

If Senator Fong really wants to drum up support for the new calendar, he should disregard the Campbell amendments and substitute one calling for tax-free days on the dates in question. That idea will not evoke much enthusiasm from hardnosed bureaucrats, but it will result in a groundswell of support from the grass roots.

A tax-free day every year and another every four years might even compensate for the disappearance of Friday the 13th from the calendar.

These Days

Financing Education

Soon the crest of the big post-war baby crop will have flooded through our high schools and on into college. It wasn't so many years ago that the more gloomy prophets were claiming that the states and cities of the nation would never be able to pay for the extra grammar school and high school classrooms necessary to take care of the huge load. But the states and cities met the challenge, and then some. They built so speedily that between 1955 and 1962 the number of pupils per classroom in the nation dropped from 29.4 to 27.

Now the prophets are saying that the colleges won't be able to provide classroom space and dormitories for the swelling registrations of the next few years. President Kennedy, in his January message on education, put the increase of 1962 over 1950 at "more than fifty per cent." And, joining the gloomy prognosticators, he went on to say that "by 1970 college enrollment will nearly double."

The President's figures do not tally with projections made by the Bureau of the Census and the Office of Education, which indicate that the 1970 figure for college enrollment will stand at some 50 per cent of the 1962 figure, not at 100 per cent. But, waiving the discrepancies between the President's calculations and those of the statisticians who work in his Administration, it is obvious that college enrollments are going to increase by a good deal. The question is: must the federal government finance whatever space is needed for the flood of extra students, or can the states, cities and private agencies be counted on to meet the coming emergencies, as happened before in the case of primary and secondary school facilities.

According to Roger A. Freeman of the Hoover Institution at Stanford University, who made a number of exceedingly well-informed and prophetically accurate studies of primary and secondary educational needs in the Nineteen Fifties for the White House Conference on Education, the present cry for massive federal aid to the colleges is just as mistaken as the call for federally supported grammar and high school programs was a few years ago. Mr. Freeman points out that the diminishing birthrate will soon enable the cities and states to channel a bigger proportion of their educational funds to technical schools and to colleges. But beyond that, he points to the great possibilities of the so-called trimester system that enables the University of Pittsburgh, for example, to use its plant all year round. The trimester plan, according to Pitt's Chancellor Edward Litchfield, "could reduce the $10 billion needed in the next decade for new facilities to about $6 billion."

Realizing, perhaps that there is something fishy about the propaganda for massive federal support of college building programs, many members of Congress have come up more or less simultaneously with the idea that it is the taxpayer who should get the break when it comes to providing aid to education. There are some 120 separate bills now pending in the Senate and the House which would give some sort of tax concessions to families that have sons and daughters in private schools and colleges. These bills ring the changes on Senator Abe Ribicoff's proposal to let parents deduct up to $1,500 for college expenses.

The drawback in the tax deduction or concession idea is that the colleges themselves would get no monetary benefit from it. Indeed, they might very well incur a loss, for individual income tax deductions for educational purposes would probably increase the enrollment and add to the pressure on college facilities. To get around this objection, Mr. Freeman suggests that tax credits be given to individual families to support an across-the-board general increase in college tuition charges. The deal on the tax credit would be between the individual taxpayer and the Internal Revenue Service, which would keep the federal government out of higher education. But the colleges would get more money for the service they provide.

This would be a non-bureaucratic way to help out both the parents and the educators. But when did the federal government ever do things the short and easy way?

'Admit You're Stupid And We'll Get Along'

The Half-Hearted Initiative In 'United' Europe

WASHINGTON

By Joseph Alsop

In the back rooms of the White House, preparations are already being made for the President's European tour. In the usual Kennedy way, every sort of person imaginable is being asked what the President should say and how he ought to say it, in order to achieve the best results in Italy and Germany.

The central problem is what to do about the scheme for the multilateral nuclear deterrent. By proposing this mixed seaborne force armed with American nuclear missiles, the President sought to recapture the European initiative after the jarring setback of Gen. de Gaulle's veto on British entry into the European Common Market.

The subject is so thorny that it is not much discussed. Yet it is so important that it has got to be discussed. The question is whether the American initiative will or will not fail from half-heartedness.

To recapitulate briefly: after making his public proposal, the President sent Special Ambassador Livingston Merchant to explain the multilateral deterrent to the Europeans. In Germany, which has become the key country in Europe and in NATO because of Gen. de Gaulle's intransigence, Merchant was given a warm, yet critical welcome.

German Defense Minister Kai-Uwe von Hassel asked particularly insistent questions about the control arrangements for the new cooperative, mixed-manned nuclear force. The American scheme called for a control committee, in which each contributing nation would have a veto on the use of the new nuclear force. Von Hassel pointed out first of all that if the American veto were retained, the creation of the new force would in no way dilute the effective American monopoly on nuclear power. But he gave vastly more importance to another point.

He drummed home the probability that with a one-nation-one-veto system, Labor leader

Harold Wilson would quite soon have a veto as British Prime Minister. In that case, von Hassel remarked, heavy investment in the new force would hardly be justifiable.

Von Hassel's arguments were not—and still are not—easy to answer. With sensible moderation, however, he did not ask for any immediate change in the control arrangements, which would have required immediate, drastic amendment of the McMahon Act.

Instead, he asked for a personal commitment by the President to recommend control by majority vote of the control committee, after the new force had been built, organized, manned, and operationally tested at sea. This request is the problem the U.S. policy-makers have since been wrestling with.

The wrestling has been complicated by three highly curious factors. Even at the outset, the President made his proposal with qualified enthusiasm. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who had little share in the original initiative, has also placed the main emphasis on avoiding Congressional trouble arising from excessive tampering with the McMahon Act.

Finally, Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara is a high and dry non-proliferationist (the new word of art for those who wish to retain the U.S. nuclear monopoly at all costs). He therefore wants the U.S. veto kept in the scheme. The wrestling has therefore produced a compromise.

Somewhere along the line in Europe, and almost certainly in Germany, the President will do a re-take of his remarkable Philadelphia speech, on the theme that the U.S. wants Europe as a fully equal partner. He will point to the multilateral deterrent as the germ of a European deterrent, as it would be if majority control were adopted. But he will only commit himself to alterations of the control arrangements when Europe is "truly united," rather than when the force is operational.

Given the hard fact of Gen. de Gaulle, Europe is not likely to be truly united while President Kennedy is in office. The question therefore is whether this high-sounding compromise will satisfy the Europeans, and especially the Germans. Will the Germans really want to spend something like $200 million a year on a force over which Harold Wilson will probably have a veto?

For fear of seeming to demand nuclear weapons for themselves, the Germans have not again posed the question von Hassel asked Merchant in Bonn. The German Defense Minister was silent on the subject in his talks with Americans in Ottawa, and so was Minister Heinrich Krone on his exploration trip to Washington.

Rather complacently, therefore, the Kennedy policy-makers are saying the Germans have changed their minds. Yet they have done nothing of the sort, as was indicated in an interview given to a German journalist in Ottawa by Minister von Hassel. Hence the question posed above is still pretty worrying. And if the scheme goes sour because the answer to the question turns out to be negative, the Kennedy policy-makers would hardly give a more glittering present to Gen. de Gaulle.

HOFFA'S NUMBER UP?—Justice Department officials are again—hopelessly—predicting that Jimmy Hoffa's string is running out. There's nothing new in the prediction, but this time there are indications that the wily head of the Teamsters Union may be in hot water.

Hoffa's troubles with the federal government began some years ago when he took over the union from its old boss, Dave Beck, who was convicted on a variety of charges concerning personal use of money and assets of the nation's largest single labor union.

It fell to Hoffa to appear before Senate investigators, among whose counsel was a young lawyer named Robert F. Kennedy, now attorney general and the President's brother. Bobby has vowed to "get" Hoffa behind bars, but so far Hoffa has won all the skirmishes.

Bobby utilized two Hoffa acquaintances during the Eisenhower administration as campaign material. He promised to nail Hoffa. In fact, he and the Justice Department made a strong run at it in a court in Nashville, Tenn., where, late last year, Hoffa got a hung jury on charges that he violated federal laws in accepting payments from a trucking firm.

Now, Hoffa has been indicted again—along with some lesser lights in his union—on charges growing out of the Nashville episode. He is charged with jury tampering. This is a tough rap in that it carries potentially severe penalties that could put the Teamsters' president behind bars for a long time and wipe out his effective leadership.

Another case still pending against him charges fraud and conspiracy in land development operations in Florida in which he also is accused of having benefited financially. The land case is progressing slowly, but the attorneys at the Justice Department really believe they have an airtight case against Hoffa on the jury tampering rap this time.

French scientists have synthesized a harmless but nutritious food supplement from crude oil. According to Medical World News, the substance is a protein powder containing more essential amino acids—pound for pound—than are found in eggs, plus a high amount of vitamin B. The product is tasteless but could be doctored with artificial flavoring or incorporated into a more palatable, but less nutritive food.

Research of this nature is part of the world-wide fight against hunger. We need more sources of cheap but nourishing foods, and proteins are stressed. The inhabitants of North America, Europe, and Oceania consume a daily average of 573 grams of milk, 152 of meat, 30 of eggs, and 34 of fish. Those in less developed areas such as Latin America, Asia, and Africa have a daily protein intake of 79 grams of milk, 30 of meat, 4 of eggs, and 24 of fish. This means the wealthier nations consume almost one-third more protein than do the others.

But this is only part of the story. The world's population may double by the end of the century. Approximately five times as much land will be needed to obtain proteins from livestock as from cereal cultivation. Attempts to share the protein supply would mean that the health of many more persons would suffer.

Protein deficiency in some areas is more widespread in children. The belief has been popular that those performing heavy physical work need this food element; as a result, the lion's share goes to father. This theory never has been proved but there is no doubt that workers in heavy industries eat more protein than do those on sedentary jobs. This is understandable because they eat more food.

The relationship between diet and infection also is a moot question. We know the undernourished people of the tropics do not withstand infections well. But a balanced diet will not protect against diseases such as typhus, plague, cholera, yellow fever, malaria, or smallpox. On the other hand the proteins of the blood (gamma globulins) carry

Radioactivity Level In United States Subject of Congressional Hearing

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—A Congressional hearing will be held this week of vital interest to mothers all over the nation. It will deal with the question of radioactive levels in the United States and whether they have become too dangerous.

The hearing will be held before the Joint Atomic Energy Committee of Congress with Dr. Paul Tompkins of the Atomic Energy Commission as the chief witness. Behind the hearing is the fact that more and more radioactivity is filling the atmosphere as a result of Russian and American testing. And, like the national debt limit which was increased by Congress last week, the radioactive levels of the nation will have to be increased.

At the present writing no witnesses are scheduled to testify against raising the radioactive level. All the witnesses will be pro-government experts who will testify that there is no danger from pumping a little more radioactivity into the bloodstream of the nation.

In Knoxville, Tenn., last week, U. S. District Judge Robert L. Taylor heard a very significant damage suit brought by two widows of atomic workers in the Union Carbide Plant at Oak Ridge, Tenn., together with one worker suffering from leukemia.

Mrs. Wilson Beckham and Mrs. Howard Pierce were suing for $500,000 damages on the ground that their husbands had developed cancer from being exposed to too much radioactivity. H. T. Mahoney, who joined them in the suit, testified that he was first exposed to radiation in 1957, suffered from headaches, and in 1959 his illness was diagnosed as leukemia. He has not worked since.

During the course of the trial, Dr. Irwin N. Sax, formerly with the Atomic Energy Commission, now employed with the New York Public Health Service, testified that the rate of lymphatic disease among employees of Union Carbide's K-25 plant at Oak Ridge is as high or higher than among the Japanese after the first A-bombs were dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

One person who turned up at the trial, though not a plaintiff, was Olin G. Smith, a broken hulk of a man who had been subjected to radioactivity while making metal shapes of U235. Today he cannot be subjected to daylight, must be covered up wherever he goes.

These are some of the pathetic penalties the American people have had to suffer as a result of letting the atomic genie out of the bottle. President Kennedy expressed doubt at a recent press conference as to whether it could ever be put back again.

Texas Hats At UN

If you want to know where those Texas ten-gallon hats seen in the lobby of the United Nations came from, the answer is 'the LBJ Ranch. Twenty-six U.N. delegates from Africa, Latin America, Europe, and Asia toured Texas recently as a part of the program to help U.N. delegates see America, not just the sidewalks of New York and the cocktail circuits of Washington.

Highlight of their visit was a barbecue at the ranch of Vice President Johnson, where Texans from all over the state came to shake hands. The U.N. delegates spoke everything from Portuguese and Spanish to Congolese, Arabic, Japanese, Rumanian, and Norwegian, but they got along fine in Texas, a state hitherto identified in many minds with the John Birch Society.

Their visit came at the height of the Birmingham crisis, and the fact that they saw Negro and Mexican students in the San Antonio High School Band helped offset those pictures of police dogs on the streets of Birmingham.

Note—The U.N. visit to Texas also came just as the Soviet, which owes $65 million to the United Nations, proclaimed that it was going to cut back its dues further. France also owes $22 million to the U.N. for the Congo operation.

Sugar Shortage?

Department of Agriculture experts have given a detailed report to the White House that there is no need for alarm over a sugar shortage. Secretary of Agriculture Freeman also reported that the upward price spiral in sugar has reached a turning point and he expects a steady downward slide.

Actually, we have 500,000 more tons of sugar available now than at this time last year. However, to stop the price squeeze Freeman has purchased one million additional tons of foreign sugar from Australia, Argentina, India, Mexico, and other countries, under the "global quota" of the 1962 Sugar Act.

Freeman also has temporarily lifted acreage restrictions on cane and sugar beet production in the United States. This will help to stabilize the market until the cane and sugar beet harvests in October.

Big candy and soft drink makers have been yelling the loudest about higher sugar prices, but they actually provoked the price boom by a wave of buying to boost their inventories, thus causing speculative buying by other industrial sugar users.

Another problem is the fact that in the past we could always depend upon the three-million-ton yearly quota of sugar from Cuba to equal our domestic supply and keep prices down. We can't depend upon this anymore.

Note—Congress will probably amend the Sugar Act to further increase foreign imports.

MADRID, Spain. — It was late and the shops in the old section were shuttered and the only people on the street were small knots of working men drinking rose wine and talking about sports. It was cool after midnight and, here and there in the blue gloom, a weak light tossed yellow haze from a bedroom window.

Cagney got in the back seat with Kelly. I was up front with the chauffeur. The long good dinner was over and we had split the party to go to the Ritz in separate cars for coffee. Jim's brothers — Dr. Edward Cagney and Dr. Harry Cagney of Los Angeles — were in a taxi with Howard Newman, who speaks Spanish with a Brooklyn accent. Samuel and the beautiful Dorothea Bronston were with David Brown, who comes from Mississippi and speaks Spanish with a you-all drawl.

I speak Spanish in pantomime. Cagney was telling a story about Wilson Mizner going to elaborate pains to open a safe in the Klondike and, when he got to it with his Pete manner, the crowd he said mournfully: "I found I could have kicked it open with a moccasin." I told him the one about the man who, when he visited Paris always hurried to the Eiffel tower "because it's the only place from which one can see Paris without looking at the Eiffel tower."

The cars moved out of Madrid Antigua and up across the cobbled Plaza Mayor, deserted except for lovers holding hands under the arcades, and out onto the Plaza del Sol, where the lights appear to be brighter when the people are gone. James Cagney was on a slow tour around the Mediterranean by ship. He brought his brothers along, and his painting teacher, a Russian named Sergei.

The ship was near Alexandria, Egypt, when Sergei leaned over the rail and watched the bow wave sparkle in sunshine. "It is so wonderful," he said softly, "to be touring instead of escaping." He and Jim had made sketches up and down the Nile, and had moved slowly around the sea until now they were in Spain.

Cagney is a little overweight, but he has more energy and love-of-life than anyone except Bronston, who fingers each dawn as though someone had handed him a rare pearl. Jim has quit making motion pictures. Kelly told him she had heard other actors say it, but they always came back for one more picture. "Not me," said Jim, pointing to his chest. "Not this man. I'm through. The last picture I was in, I had to pump myself up every morning just to face the cameras. No more."

He sketches. He paints. He visits. He tells stories. Cagney and his wife have a home in Hollywood, a steer-breeding farm on the Hudson, and a summer home in Martha's Vineyard. Deep inside, he is a shy and serious man, the antithesis of the tough guy on the screen. He dreads big parties and appearances.

The car was in the Plaza de Neptuno, the fountain sparkling in cascades beneath the heroic feet of King Neptune, standing in a marble chariot with the big trident aloft.

Most xylophones have bars made of rosewood—Factorgars. So that's why they turn out such flowery music!

Jim was telling a story about an Irish widow in California whose husband was dead eight months. She had fallen in love with a man named Paddy, who wanted to marry her at once.

The priest said no. "As a matter of respect for your lamented husband," he said, "you should wait a year before remarrying." She argued with him, to no avail. He sent her away and she went out in the garden and stood before a statue of the Blessed Mother. The woman beseeched the Mother of God for a sign that she should marry Paddy at once.

The priest heard her and, tipped behind the statue, "No," he roared. The woman heard the voice and said: "Just give me a little sign, a wink of an eye if you please, to show that I should marry Paddy right off." The hidden priest replied: "No." The woman compressed her lips in anger. "Be quiet for a minute," she replied, "and let your poor Mother speak?"

Cagney talked ecology for a minute as the car made the final turn to the Ritz. Ecology is the knowledge of man's natural resources and Cagney's worry about how man dissipates his oil reserves and copper and coal and tin and forests and streams is something we have in common.

"My brothers and I drove down from Barcelona," he said. "All along the road, rings had been cut around big old trees, beautiful old trees." He shook his head and slumped in the seat. "They'll all be cut down because man wants to widen a highway."

He was silent a moment. Then he murmured:

"Man comes and the trees go. The waters soon follow apace. They make their way toward the mother sea."

In broad fingers of liquid lace Carrying along the willing land For which they have much affinity.

Making up as they do with sweet clean air God's very own blessed trinity. "Where did you hear that?" I said as the car stopped. He shook his head from side to side. "No where," he said. "I just made it up."

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

There once was a capricious tycoon in downtown New York whose office was overrun with dogs. Never less than thirty poodles, pugs, pomeranians, and terriers had the run of the premises. Furthermore, every applicant for a job had to run the gamut of these canines before being granted an audience with the boss. The reaction of the dogs was carefully noted. If they liked him the job was his; if they growled at him, he never had a prayer.

One wily applicant learned of the tycoon's idiosyncrasy in time. He carefully lined the cuffs of his trousers and the inner band of his hat with strips of raw liver. Of course the tycoon's dogs greeted his arrival with wild barks of approval—and he was made office manager on the spot.

The girl with the big blue eyes said, "I'm troubled by a nasty little wart that I'd like to have removed." "You've made a slight

'Admit You're Stupid And We'll Get Along'

A Calendar With Tax-Free Days?

It is testimony to the high level of taxation that most measures considered by Congress are weighed for their effect on the coffers of the Treasury. Even a relatively non-fiscal matter like changing the calendar has evoked warnings from fiscal officers that a tax year must be clearly defined, even if the calendar year is not.

Sen. Hiram Fong of Hawaii has introduced a bill to replace the Gregorian calendar with one invented by a citizen of his state. The proposed calendar, among other features, would have a New Year's Day each year that did not belong to either the old or the new year. It would also declare leap year to be entitled to another undated day every four years.

Joseph Campbell, comptroller general of the United States, informed the Senate Commerce Committee that if the bill has to be considered he would propose two amendments. It must be spelled out, he said, which year New Year's Day would fall into for tax purposes, since it would be an extra day belonging to neither the old nor the new year.

And if leap year is to be an extra day sandwiched in between June 30 and July 1, a ruling must be made as to which year that event belongs, since the government's fiscal year ends on June 30.

If Senator Fong really wants to drum up support for the new calendar, he should disregard the Campbell amendments and substitute one calling for tax-free days on the dates in question. That idea will not evoke much enthusiasm from hardnosed bureaucrats, but it will result in a groundswell of support from the grass roots.

A tax-free day every year and another every four years might even compensate for the disappearance of Friday the 13th from the calendar.

These Days

Financing Education

Soon the crest of the big post-war baby crop will have flooded through our high schools and on into college. It wasn't so many years ago that the more gloomy prophets were claiming that the states and cities of the nation would never be able to pay for the extra grammar school and high school classrooms necessary to take care of the huge load. But the states and cities met the challenge, and then some. They built so speedily that between 1955 and 1962 the number of pupils per classroom in the nation dropped from 29.4 to 27.

Now the prophets are saying that the colleges won't be able to provide classroom space and dormitories for the swelling registrations of the next few years. President Kennedy, in his January message on education, put the increase of 1962 over 1950 at "more than fifty per cent." And, joining the gloomy prognosticators, he went on to say that "by 1970 college enrollment will nearly double."

The President's figures do not tally with projections made by the Bureau of the Census and the Office of Education, which indicate that the 1970 figure for college enrollment will stand at some 50 per cent of the 1962 figure, not at 100 per cent. But, waiving the discrepancies between the President's calculations and those of the statisticians who work in his Administration, it is obvious that college enrollments are going to increase by a good deal. The question is: must the federal government finance whatever space is needed for the flood of extra students, or can the states, cities and private agencies be counted on to meet the coming emergencies, as happened before in the case of primary and secondary school facilities.

According to Roger A. Freeman of the Hoover Institution at Stanford University, who made a number of exceedingly well-informed and prophetically accurate studies of primary and secondary educational needs in the Nineteen Fifties for the White House Conference on Education, the present cry for massive federal aid to the colleges is just as mistaken as the call for federally supported grammar and high school programs was a few years ago. Mr. Freeman points out that the diminishing birthrate will soon enable the cities and states to channel a bigger proportion of their educational funds to technical schools and to colleges. But beyond that, he points to the great possibilities of the so-called trimester system that enables the University of Pittsburgh, for example, to use its plant all year round. The trimester plan, according to Pitt's Chancellor Edward Litchfield, "could reduce the $10 billion needed in the next decade for new facilities to about $6 billion."

Realizing, perhaps that there is something fishy about the propaganda for massive federal support of college building programs, many members of Congress have come up with more or less simultaneously with the idea that it is the taxpayer who should get the break when it comes to providing aid to education. There are some 120 separate bills now pending in the Senate and the House which would give some sort of tax concessions to families that have sons and daughters in private schools and colleges. These bills ring the changes on Senator Abe Ribicoff's proposal to let parents deduct up to $1,500 for college expenses.

The drawback in the tax deduction or concession idea is that the colleges themselves would get no monetary benefit from it. Indeed, they might very well incur a loss, for individual income tax deductions for educational purposes would probably increase the enrollment and add to the pressure on college facilities. To get around this objection, Mr. Freeman suggests that tax credits be given to individual families to support an across-the-board general increase in college tuition charges. The deal on the tax credit would be between the individual taxpayer and the Internal Revenue Service, which would keep the federal government out of higher education. But the colleges would get more money for the service they provide.

This would be a non-bureaucratic way to help out both the parents and the educators. But when did the federal government ever do things the short and easy way?

The Half-Hearted Initiative In 'United' Europe

WASHINGTON

In the back rooms of the White House, preparations are already being made for the President's European tour. In the usual Kennedy way, every sort of person imaginable is being asked what the President should say and how he ought to say it, in order to achieve the best results in Italy and Germany.

The central problem is what to do about the scheme for the multilateral nuclear deterrent. By proposing this mixed seaboard force armed with American nuclear missiles, the President sought to recapture the European initiative after the jarring setback of Gen. de Gaulle's veto on British entry into the European Common Market.

The subject is so thorny that it is not much discussed. Yet it is so important that it has got to be discussed. The question is whether the American initiative will or will not fail from half-heartedness.

To recapitulate briefly: after making his public proposal, the President sent Special Ambassador Livingston Merchant to explain the multilateral deterrent to the Europeans. In Germany, which has become the key country in Europe and in NATO because of Gen. de Gaulle's intransigence, Merchant was given a warm, yet critical welcome.

German Defense Minister Kai-Uwe von Hassel asked particularly insistent questions about the control arrangements for the new cooperative, mixed-manned nuclear force. The American scheme called for a control committee, in which each contributing nation would have a veto on the use of the new nuclear force. Von Hassel pointed out first of all that if the American veto were retained, the creation of the new force would in no way dilute the effective American monopoly on nuclear power. But he gave vastly more importance to another point.

He drummed home the probability that with a one-nation-one-veto system, Labor leader

Harold Wilson would quite soon have a veto as British Prime Minister. In that case, von Hassel remarked, heavy investment in the new force would hardly be justifiable.

Von Hassel's arguments were not—and still are not—easy to answer. With sensible moderation, however, he did not ask for any immediate change in the control arrangements, which would have required immediate, drastic amendment of the McMahon Act.

Instead, he asked for a personal commitment by the President to recommend control by majority vote of the control committee, after the new force had been built, organized, manned, and operationally tested at sea. This request is the problem the U.S. policy-makers have since been wrestling with.

By Joseph Alsop

The wrestling has been complicated by three highly curious factors. Even at the outset, the President made his proposal with qualified enthusiasm. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who had little share in the original initiative, has also placed the main emphasis on avoiding Congressional trouble arising from excessive tampering with the McMahon Act.

Finally, Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara is a high and dry non-proliferationist (the new word of art for those who wish to retain the U.S. nuclear monopoly at all costs). He therefore wants the U.S. veto kept in the scheme. The wrestling has therefore produced a compromise.

Somewhere along the line in Europe, and almost certainly in Germany, the President will do a re-take of his remarkable Philadelphia speech, on the theme that the U.S. wants Europe as a fully equal partner. He will point to the multilateral deterrent as the germ of a European deterrent, as it would be if majority control were adopted. But he will only commit himself to alterations of the control arrangements when Europe is "truly united," rather than when the force is operational.

Given the hard fact of Gen. de Gaulle, Europe is not likely to be truly united while President Kennedy is in office. The question therefore is whether this high-sounding compromise will satisfy the Europeans, and especially the Germans. Will the Germans really want to spend something like $200 million a year on a force over which Harold Wilson will probably have a veto?

For fear of seeming to demand nuclear weapons for themselves, the Germans have not again posed the question von Hassel asked Merchant in Bonn. The German Defense Minister was silent on the subject in his talks with Americans in Ottawa, and so was Minister Heinrich Krone on his exploration trip to Washington.

Rather complacently, therefore, the Kennedy policy-makers are saying the Germans have changed their minds. Yet they have done nothing of the sort, as was indicated in an interview given to a German journalist in Ottawa by Minister von Hassel. Hence the question posed above is still pretty worrying. And if the scheme goes sour because the answer to the question turns out to be negative, the Kennedy policy-makers would hardly give a more glittering present to Gen. de Gaulle.

that their husbands had developed cancer from being exposed to too much radioactivity. H. T. Mahoney, who joined them in the suit, testified that he was first exposed to radiation in 1957, suffered from headaches, and in 1959 his illness was diagnosed as leukemia. He has not worked since.

During the course of the trial, Dr. Irwin N. Sax, formerly with the Atomic Energy Commission, now employed with the New York Public Health Service, testified that the rate of lymphatic disease among employees of Union Carbide's K-25 plant at Oak Ridge is as high or higher than among the Japanese after the first A-bombs were dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

One person who turned up at the trial, though not a plaintiff, was Olin G. Smith, a broken hulk of a man who had been subjected to radioactivity while making metal shapes of U235. Today he cannot be subjected to daylight, must be covered up wherever he goes.

These are some of the pathetic penalties the American people have had to suffer as a result of letting the atomic genie out of the bottle. President Kennedy expressed doubt at a recent press conference as to whether it could ever be put back again.

Texas Hats At UN

If you want to know where those Texas ten-gallon hats seen in the lobby of the United Nations came from, the answer is 'the LBJ Ranch. Twenty-six U.N. delegates from Africa, Latin America, Europe, and Asia toured Texas as recently as a part of the program to help U.N. delegates see America, not just the sidewalks of New York and the cocktail circuits of Washington.

Highlight of their visit was a barbecue at the ranch of Vice President Johnson, where Texans from all over the state came to shake hands. The U.N. delegates spoke everything from Portuguese and Spanish to Congolese, Arabic, Japanese, Rumanian, and Norwegian, but they got along fine in Texas, a state hitherto identified in many minds with the John Birch Society.

Their visit came at the height of the Birmingham crisis, and the fact that they saw Negro and Mexican students in the San Antonio High School Band helped offset those pictures of police dogs on the streets of Birmingham.

Note—The U.N. visit to Texas also came just as the Soviet, which owes $65 million to the United Nations, proclaimed that it was going to cut back its dues further. France also owes $22 million to the U.N. for the Congo operation.

Sugar Shortage?

Department of Agriculture experts have given a detailed report to the White House that there is no need for alarm over a sugar shortage. Secretary of Agriculture Freeman also reported that the upward price spiral in sugar has reached a turning point and he expects a steady downward slide.

Actually, we have 500,000 more tons of sugar available now than at this time last year. However, to stop the price squeeze Freeman has purchased one million additional tons of foreign sugar from Australia, Argentina, India, Mexico, and other countries, under the "global quota" of the 1962 Sugar Act.

Freeman also has temporarily lifted acreage restrictions on cane and sugar beet production in the United States. This will help to stabilize the market until the cane and sugar beet harvests in October.

Big candy and soft drink makers have been yelling the loudest about higher sugar prices, but they actually provoked the price boom by a wave of buying to boost their inventories, thus causing speculative buying by other industrial sugar users.

Another problem is the fact that in the past we could always depend upon the three-million-ton yearly quota of sugar from Cuba to balance our domestic supply and keep prices down. We can't depend upon this anymore.

Note—Congress will probably amend the Sugar Act to further increase foreign imports.

MADRID, Spain. — It was late and the shops in the old section were shuttered and the only people on the street were small knots of working men drinking rose wine and talking about sports. It was cool after midnight and, here and there in the blue gloom, a weak light tossed yellow haze from a bedroom window.

Cagney got in the back seat with Kelly. I was up front with the chauffeur. The long good dinner was over and we had split the party to go to the Ritz in separate cars for coffee. Jim's brothers — Dr. Edward Cagney and Dr. Harry Cagney of Los Angeles — were in a taxi with Howard Newman, who speaks Spanish with a Brooklyn accent. Samuel and the beautiful Dorothea Bronston were with David Brown, who comes from Mississippi and speaks Spanish with a you-all drawl.

I speak Spanish in pantomime. Cagney was telling a story about Wilson Mizner going to elaborate pains to open a safe in the Klondike and, when he got to it with his Pete man and the crowbars, he said mockingly: "I found I could have kicked it open with a moccasin." World-Wide Fight Against Hunger Never Ends

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

French scientists have synthesized a harmless but nutritious food supplement from crude oil. According to Medical World News, the substance is a protein powder containing more essential amino acids — pound for pound — than are found in eggs, plus a high amount of vitamin B. The product is tasteless but could be doctored with artificial flavoring or incorporated into a more palatable but less nutritive food.

Research of this nature is part of the world-wide fight against hunger. We need more sources of cheap but nourishing foods, and proteins are stressed. The inhabitants of North America, Europe, and Oceania consume a daily average of 573 grams of milk, 152 of meat, 30 of eggs, and 34 of fish. Those in less developed areas such as Latin America, Asia, and Africa have a daily protein intake of 79 grams of milk, 30 of meat, 4 of eggs, and 24 of fish. This means the wealthier nations consume almost one-third more protein than do the others.

But this is only part of the story. The world's population may double by the end of the century. Approximately five times as much land will be needed to obtain proteins from livestock as from cereal cultivation. Attempts to share the protein supply would mean that the health of many more persons would suffer.

Protein deficiency in some areas is more widespread in children. The belief has been popular that those performing heavy physical work need this food element; as a result, the lion's share goes to father. This theory never has been proved but there is no doubt that workers in heavy industries eat more protein than do those on sedentary jobs. This is understandable because they eat more food.

The relationship between diet and infection also is a moot question. We know the undernourished people of the tropics do not withstand infections well. But a balanced diet will not protect against diseases such as typhus, plague, smallpox, yellow fever, malaria, or cholera. On the other hand the proteins of the blood (gamma globulins) carry

WEDNESDAY GAMES
(All Games at 6 p. m.)
Hyndman at Barrelville
Lonaconing at Frostburg
Mt. Savage at Cumberland

Making his initial start of the season in the Pen-Mar Baseball League, John "Lefty" Sloan, LaSalle High School grad, who pitched for Washington College this year, hurled the Cumberland Old-Germans to a 3-2 decision over the Frostburg Merchants yesterday at the Municipal Baseball Park.

Mt. Savage took over sole possession of first place in the six-team league by beating Barrelville in 10 innings, 8-7, while Frostburg and Lonaconing lost to break the three-way deadlock for the league leadership.

Hyndman broke a six-game losing streak to register its initial win of the campaign at the expense of Lonaconing by the score of 9-3 at Hyndman.

Cumberland (5-2) is now in second place, a half game back of Mt. Savage (6-2).

Cage's Homer Big Blow

Sloan and Ronnie Diehl hooked up in a scoreless slab duel until the 7th inning when the Old-Germans scored thrice, the big blow being pinch-hitter Ronnie Cage's two-run homer over the left field barrier.

John Price was hit by a pitched ball to open 7th, advanced to second in Alan Stockholm's sacrifice and scored on "Butch" Cross' single. After Reynolds struck out, Cage, batting for Charles Cantone, blasted a round-tripper to give the Old-Germans a 3-0 lead.

No-Hitter Until 9th
Sloan had a no-hitter going until two out in the ninth when successive doubles by Gary Keedy and Jim Rice and a single by Allan Eisel produced two runs for the Merchants.

Both Sloan and Diehl turned in three-hit performances. Reynolds, Cross and Cage accounted for the winning team's blows and Keedy, Rice and Eisel connected for Frostburg.

Sloan struck out seven and issued only one free ticket while Diehl whiffed five and gave up two bases on balls.

Frostburg's infield executed two double plays.

Walks In Winning Run

Leroy Morris, fourth Barrelville pitcher, walked Ted Femi with the bases loaded in the 10th inning to give Mt. Savage the verdict over Manager "Buck" Fiorita's Old Exports, who dropped into last place with a 1-7 record.

In the 9th inning, Pat Folk, the second Barrelville hurler, gave up a bases full walk that enabled Mt. Savage to knot the count at 7-7.

Mt. Savage scored the tying and winning runs without the aid of a hit.

Johnny Keister, who pitched until the 9th for Barrelville, yielded seven of Mt. Savage's eight hits; fanned eight and walked three. The loss, however, went to Dave Richards who put the tie in the 10th frame.

Johnson Notches 5th Win

The winner was Lefty Wayne Johnson, who followed Harold Mongold and Bob Dickel to the mound. It was the Mt. Savage southpaw's fifth win against a single loss.

Bobby Green collected three of Mt. Savage's eight blows. Ted Femi blasted a triple and Steven Faulkner rapped a two-bagger. Dorcil Kline led Barrelville's 12-hit attack with a triple, double and single. Keister, Bill Clauson and Kenny Neubiser garnered two blows each.

Hyndman racked up 11 safeties in going on to notch its first win of the season. Gene Stair sparked the attack with a double and two singles in four official trips and puffed two bases. Lou Hite, Wayne Bosley and Royce Walman collected a double and single each and Dick Barclay, inserted as a pinch-hitter, came through with a two-base hit.

Wes Lashbaugh Victor
Wes Lashbaugh started on the mound for Hyndman but was forced to retire in the 6th inning in favor of Jim Norris because of a sore arm. The win went to Lashbaugh while Lefty Grove Fazenbaker suffered his first defeat after having copped his first three starts of the campaign.

Ellie Fazenbaker smacked a triple and single, Bobby Munden banged a three-bagger and Fred Sloan had two singles for Lonaconing.

Cliff Clites' running catch of Munden's long drive to center field in the first inning was the fielding highlight.

Date Is Changed

Mets Sweep Doubleheader From Pirates

Elroy Face Loses Both, 2-1 And 4-3

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Hickman's homer gave the New York Mets a 4-3 decision over the Pittsburgh Pirates for a pair of 10-inning victories in their Sunday doubleheader.

The Mets won the first game 2-1 when they cashed in a run on an outfield collision.

Hickman connected with one away in the 10th of the second game against Elroy Face, who also lost the opener.

The Pirates had trailed 3-0 but battled back in the late innings for the tie.

In the opener, Larry Bearnarth led off the Met 10th against Face with a single. Jim Piersall sacrificed pinch runner Rod Kanehl to second and Tim Lincecum drew an intentional walk.

Ron Hunt then lofted a fly to left center and Bill Virdon cut over for the catch, but Jerry Lynch collided with him, jarring the ball loose. Kanehl scored on Lynch's error.

Willie Mays Cracks Three Homers, Giants Cool Off St. Louis, 6-4

Cardinal Win Streak Snapped At Five Games

Marichal Posts Eighth Triumph For NL Leaders

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Willie Mays' three homers accounted for four runs and the league leading San Francisco Giants cooled off the St. Louis Cardinals today 6-4.

The victory increased San Francisco's lead to two games over second place St. Louis. The Cardinals had won five straight and 10 of their last 11 before Sunday.

The Giants' Juan Marichal joined teammate Billy O'Dell as an eight game winner, but he needed relief help in the ninth from Bob Bolin.

Mays' third homer of the day and 10th of the season with nobody on in the ninth gave the Giants a 6-1 lead. St. Louis knocked out Marichal in the ninth with three runs on a triple by Dick Groat, Stan Musial's single and a double by George Altman and Julian Javier before Bolin retired the side.

Mays started the Giants scoring with a home run after Harvey Kuenn had singled in the first. His second four-bagger hit the scoreboard with nobody on base in the eighth and his last circuit poked reached to the base of the scoreboard.

Mays had been hitless in 16 times at bat before going six for 11 in the three-game series here. His homers came off three difference pitchers—loser Ernie Bolognino (5-2) and relievers Bob Humphreys and Bobby Shantz.

Orlando Cepeda blasted his 10th homer right behind Mays in the eighth.

Colts Explode In 17th, Defeat Milwaukee, 3-1

Four Straight Hits Decide Long Battle

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—The Houston Colts bunched four consecutive singles in the 17th inning to score two runs and take a 3-1 victory over the Milwaukee Braves in a marathon four hours and 36 minute game.

After Ron Piche, the fourth Milwaukee pitcher, had run up a streak of four strikeouts, Carl Warwick got the first ring in the 17th and went to third on a followup single by Rusty Staub. Jim Campbell's single then scored Warwick and Al Spangler followed with another single to score Staub.

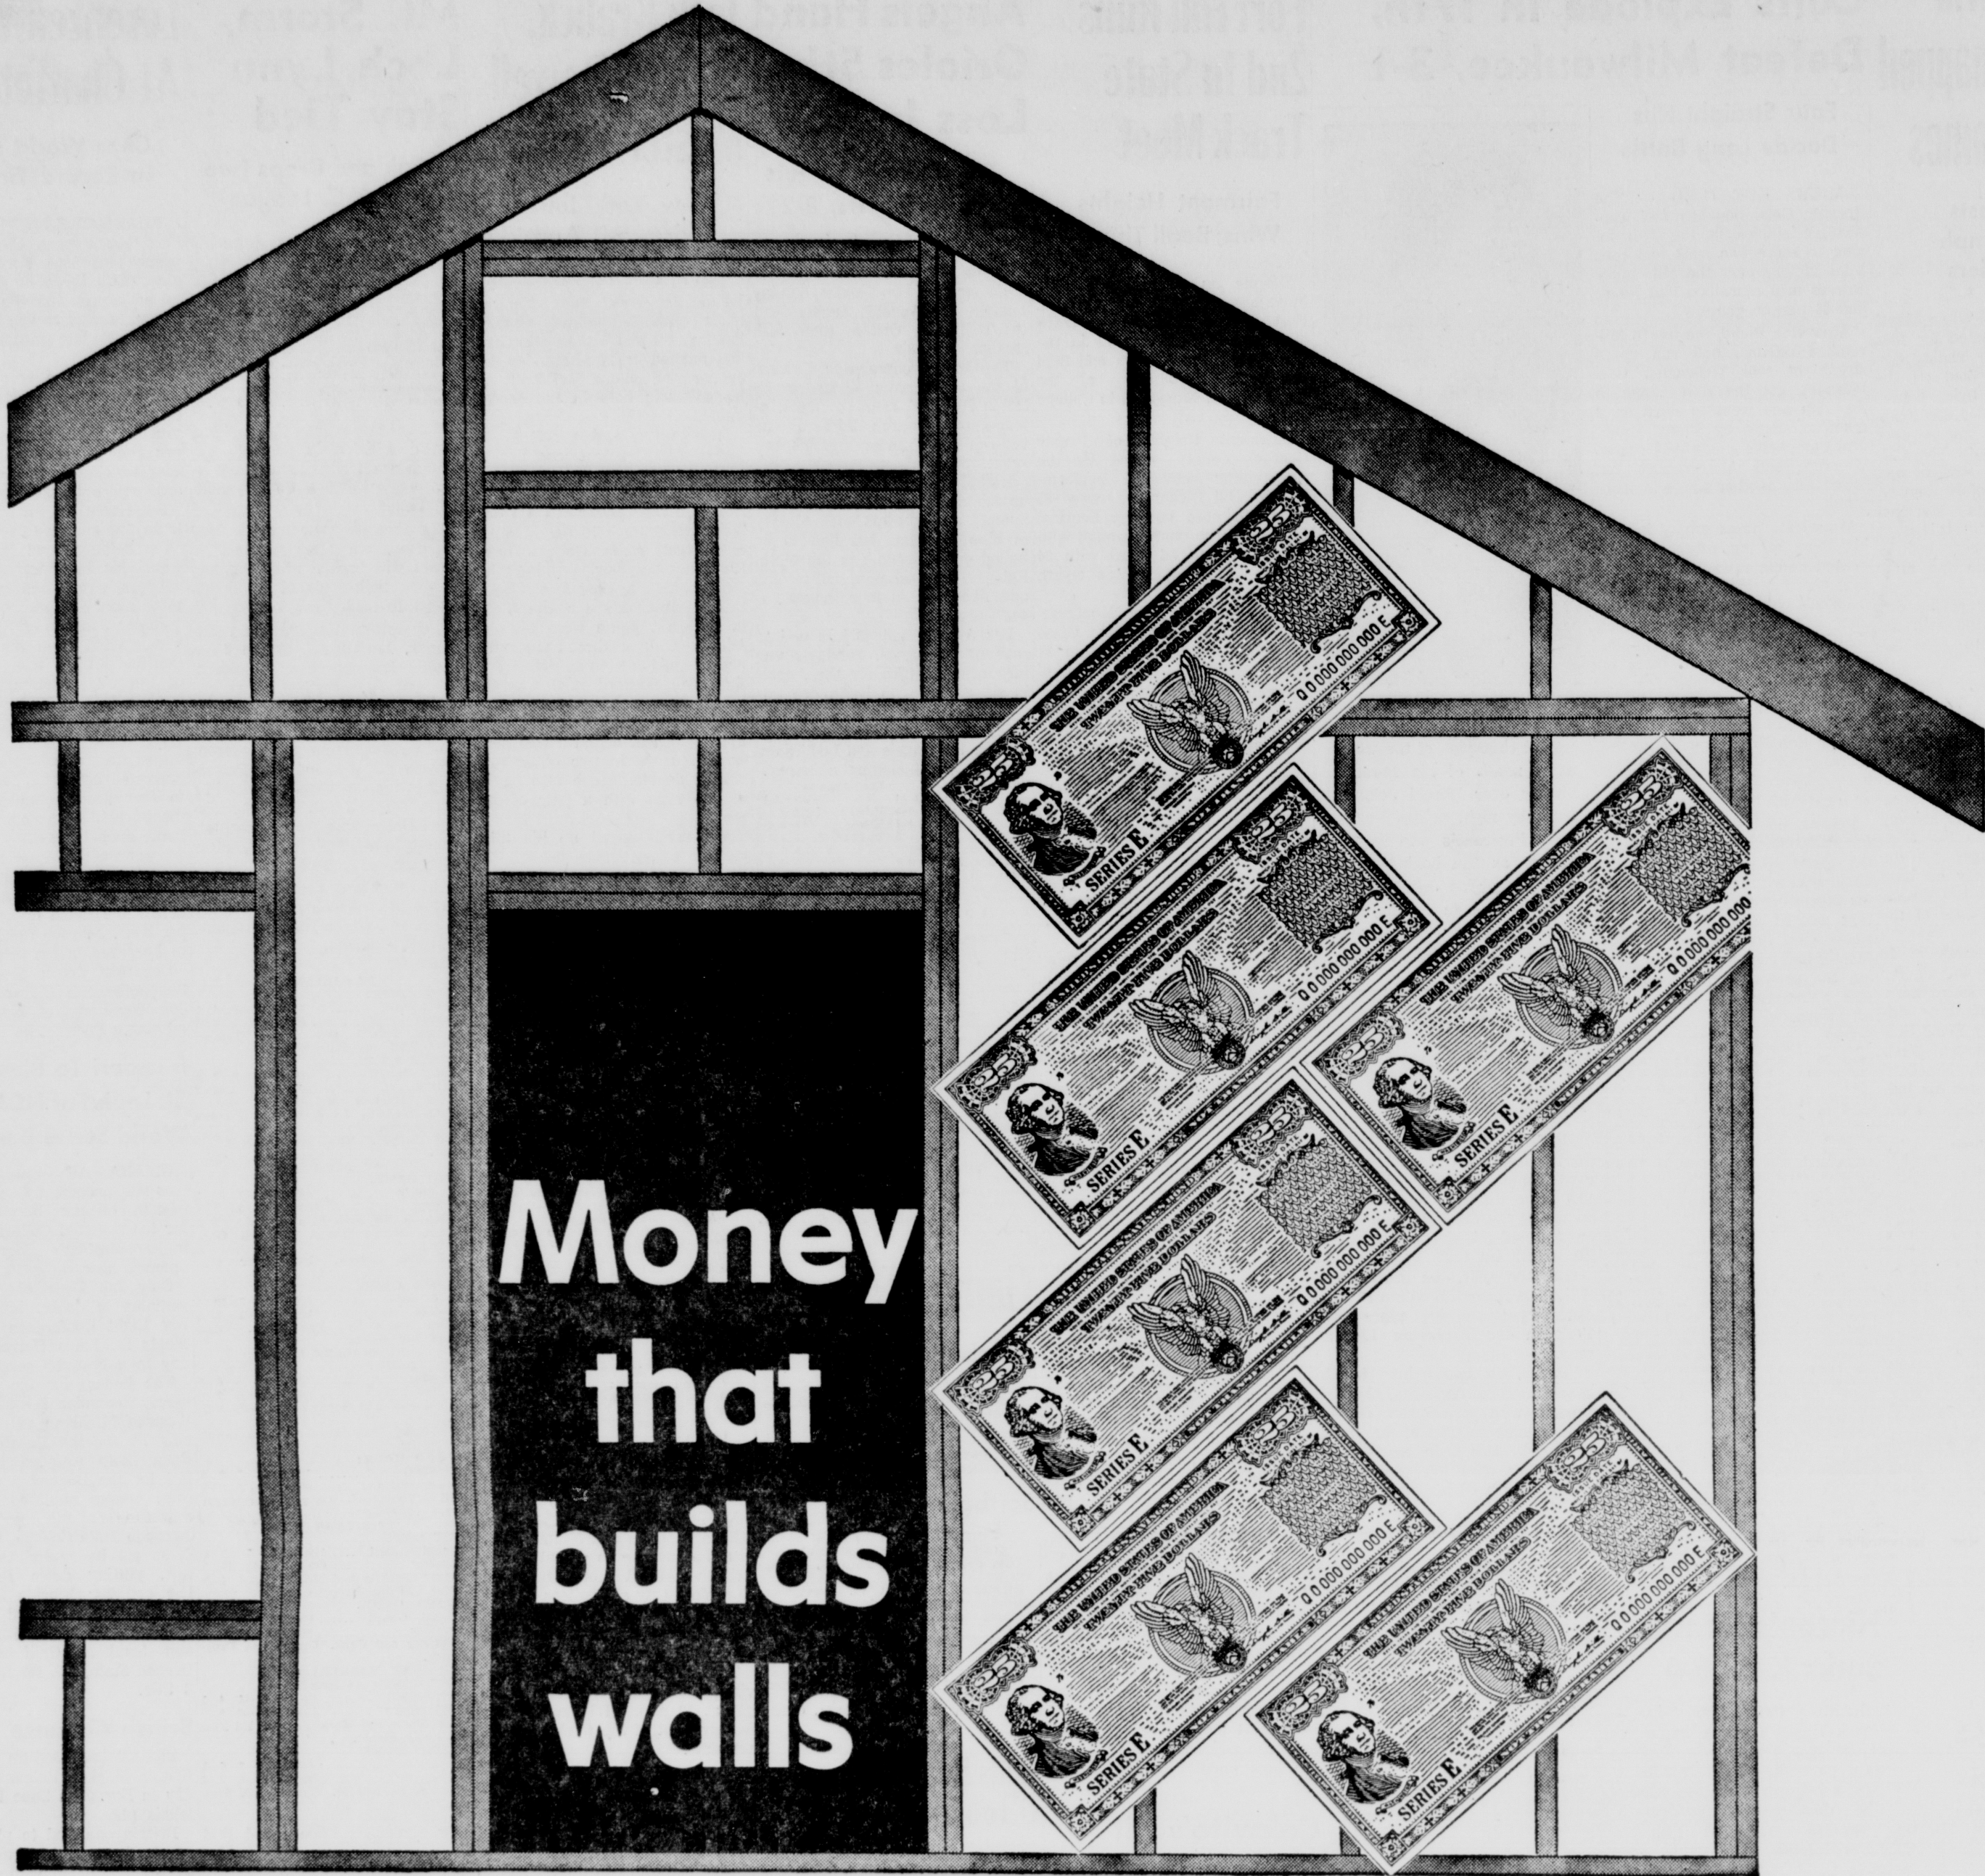

Warwick's bases empty homer, his third of the season, in the second inning produced Houston's first run. Lay Mays drove in Milwaukee's only run in the third inning with a sacrifice fly which sent home Denis Menke, who singled and advanced to third on Roy McMillan's double.

Hal Woodeshick, who worked the final six innings in relief of starter Bob Bruce, picked up his fourth win of the season on a two-hit performance. Piche was charged with his first loss.

Denver LeMaster, who started for Milwaukee, was thrown out of the game by plate umpire Bill Jackowski with two out in the 13th for protesting a called fourth ball that walked Campbell and put runners on first and second. LeMaster had used profanity in making the protest and his ejection was automatic, the Braves said afterward.

Money that builds walls

...American style

The money you're putting into U. S. Savings Bonds today will probably some day go into college tuition, or new furniture, or the walls of a new home.

Until you need it, this money is earmarked for a very important job. And you can be sure it isn't building a 27-mile barrier of brick, barbed wire, and concrete.

Every dollar you save with Uncle Sam goes directly into keeping our country strong, with its affairs in good order, so that we can carry on the struggle for freedom—at remote outposts, at conference tables, in outer space.

Tens of millions of American families have accumulated $45 billion in E and H Bonds—part of our strength as individuals. And part of the strength of the nation.

Start putting part of your savings to work for your country while it works for you. Buy U. S. Savings Bonds at your bank regularly or where you work, and see if you don't feel good about it.

Quick facts about U. S. Savings Bonds | 1. You get $4 back for every $3 when your Bonds mature. 2. Your Bonds are replaced free if lost, stolen, or destroyed. 3. You can get money anytime. 4. You can save automatically on Payroll Savings.

Castle Open To Public

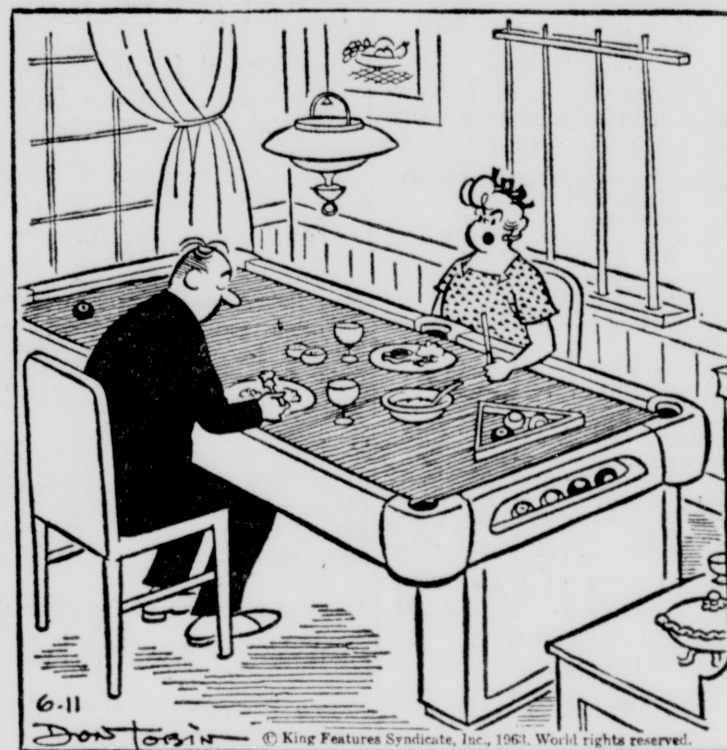

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The ruins and grounds of Warsaw's Royal Castle, home of Polish kings until 1794, are being opened to the public. The castle was blown up by the Nazis in World War II. Communist officials plan to reconstruct the castle later "if the nation so wishes."

Borneo has almost four times the combined area of England and Wales.

"I'D LIKE TO OPEN A CHECKING ACCOUNT, PLEASE."

"BUT MRS. BUMSTEAD, YOU ALREADY HAVE A CHECKING ACCOUNT."

"OH, THAT ONE'S ALL OVERDRAWN."

"I WANT TO START A NICE FRESH ONE."

"SCOOTER, LET'S PLAY 'WHO-CAN-DIG-DEEPEST-HOLE'!"

"SWELL!"

"TIME'S UP!"

"I WON!"

"JULIE! DID YOU KNOW THAT BROOK WIFE IS LONA MOORE'S HUSBAND?"

"LONA—"

"WELL, YOU KNOW THE QUESTION, HOW ABOUT AN ANSWER?"

"WHEN JOHN WHITING GRIFFIN—THE MONSTER—SAYS SO."

"NO, I DIDN'T. IT'S NEVER READ ANYTHING ABOUT IT."

"LONA, WHEN ARE WE GOING TO TELL EVERYBODY IN THE WORLD WE'RE MAN AND WIFE? THAT WHAT YOU WERE GOING TO SAY?"

"ALL RIGHT, TEAM. LET'S HEAR A LITTLE CHATTER OUT THERE!"

"WELL, BEETLE, YOU GOT YOURSELF IN THIS PICKLE AND YOU CAN GET YOURSELF OUT! I'M NOT EVEN GOING TO YELL AT YOU."

"THAT'S OKAY WITH ME!"

"WHO NEEDS YOU?!"

"FOR HEAVEN'S SAKE, PEPPER! WHY DON'T YOU SIT DOWN AND READ YOUR BOOK?"

"AW, SHUCKS, I'M TIRED OF SITTING, MOM."

"I'M GOING DOWN TO THE CARGO DECK."

"BESIDES, NOBODY IS WATCHING. SUDDENLY HIS EYE IS CAUGHT BY THE CONTROL BOX THAT OPERATES ONE OF THE WINCHES."

"I'M GONNA PRETEND I'M A STEVEDORE LOADING CARGO."

"BY NOW NO ONE ABOARD SHIP IS PAYING ANY ATTENTION TO A RESTLESS BOY WHO'S ALWAYS RUNNING CLIMBING, JUMPING OR SLIDING."

"THAT AIN'T CLUTTER, PAW!!"

"THAT THAR'S MY DRESSMAKIN' DUMMY"

"TO THINK I FOUND THE SPRING I USED TO DRINK OUT OF WHEN I WAS A BOY."

"NO, SPARKLE, HE FELL IN."

"PAPPY! WHY DO YOU DO SUCH THINGS AS THIS?"

"AW, A LITTLE HUNK OF GRASS GAVE WAY—THAT'S ALL."

"ANYWAY THIS IS ALL PURE SPRING WATER. THERE'S NARY A GERM IN IT. IT WON'T HURT NOBODY."

Environment Is The Answer

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Whatever difference may exist between the achievement levels of American whites and Negroes can be explained by environment, according to a group of Stanford University anthropologists.

"Difference in participation in the existing society" was the reason given by the anthropologists in discussing the findings of Army IQ testers who reported that Negroes scored an average of 20 points lower than whites.

"In IQ tests for any group," Professor Roy D'Andrade said, "if the person tested must manipulate unfamiliar symbols, he is not likely to do well."

D'Andrade said "illiterate New York Negroes score better on IQ tests than illiterate Alabama whites." The IQ of any individual, he said, "can move up as much as 20 points after long residence in New York."

College Growth Is Emphasized

(Picture on Page 6)

Speakers at the 60th annual commencement of Frostburg State Teachers College yesterday placed considerable emphasis on the rapid growth and future expansion plans of the local educational institution.

Before William L. Wilson Jr., vice president of the board of trustees, presented diplomas to 224 graduates, it was evident that the college has a bright and prosperous future.

Jerome Framptom Jr., president of the trustees, who presided over the trustees, noted that the college started 60 years ago on a small tract of three acres of land. It has been expanded to over 200 acres, and authorization has now been obtained to expand to a total of 400 acres.

R. Bowen Hardesty, college president, noted that after July 1 the institution will no longer be known as a teacher college but will become Frostburg State College. He noted that plans are being made to expand to a student body numbering 5,000, and that current investment in buildings is over $11,000,000.

Rain Interrupts Program
The commencement speaker, Dr. Max Kaplan of Boston University, spoke on "It Is The Sense of Direction That Counts," and outlined progress in the current century, with some predictions for what can be expected before the year 2000.

Commencement exercises began as scheduled at 3 p.m. on the campus quadrangle. However, rain interrupted Dr. Kaplan's speech, and the graduates and assemblage moved to the auditorium where ceremonies were completed.

Among the degrees conferred were 10 master of education given to teachers now in service; four bachelor of arts and four bachelor of science in the arts and sciences; 14 bachelor of arts in teacher education and 192 bachelor of science, teacher education.

Applicants To Take Tests Saturday

The final Peace Corps placement test before this summer's new projects get under way will be given Saturday at 8:30 a.m. at the Cumberland Post Office.

The new test takes just one hour, plus a second hour for those who know some French or Spanish.

Citizens 18 or older interested in applying for two years' Peace Corps service in Africa, Asia or Latin America may take the test. Questionnaires are available at the Post Office and may be turned in at the time the test is taken.

Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver has announced new projects open to applicants with any of a number of varied skills. Nurses and medical technologists, teachers of English, mathematics, science or any of many other subjects; coaches, farmers, home economists, engineers and geologists, mechanics and construction workers are among those needed.

Cumberland's first Peace Corps member, Miss Beverly C. Bowie, is presently located in Fes, Morocco, where she teaches English to French and Moroccan teenagers.

Recent actions of the General Assembly will be discussed by Acting Speaker Marvin Mandel of Baltimore City, Delegate Goodie Byron of Frederick County, Delegate E. Homer White of Wicomico County, Delegate Raymond McDonough of Prince George's County, and Carl Everstine, director of the Department of Legislative Reference.

Panel Sessions will be held on municipal home rule, financing city government, urban renewal and planning.

Fes is a city of about 150,000 inhabitants, an old city dating back to the 9th Century, and is regarded as the cultural and intellectual center of Morocco. The Ville Nouvelle where Miss Bowie resides was constructed during the past hundred years, mostly for the French, and is reminiscent of Paris except for the veiled women and the donkeys on the streets.

With exception of one class of mostly girls, she teaches boys whom she described as very polite and more mature than their American counterparts. She said the school director was surprised that the new instructor was a woman, as he was expecting a man.

Slow Progress
Miss Bowie said that although Moroccan friendships take a while to cultivate (the women usually stay close to home) the situation is progressing slowly. She has visited several Moroccan homes for "huge, scrumptious meals," dressed in Moroccan clothes, and slept with a Moroccan family.

She also has visited most of Fes and thanks to the numerous school holidays has visited southern Morocco, which she said is a more simple, nomadic section, fascinating in its contrasts to the north.

Miss Bowie's term of service extends to the autumn of 1964.

Mr. Gornall and his wife, the former Joyce Ann Luckiewicz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Luckiewicz, 65 Greene Street, will move to Charleston, W. Va., where he will join United Press International as a newsman next Monday.
